$10 Million Mall For Heart Of Niles

By JOHN DYE

South Berrien Bureau

NILES — Plans for a $9.5 million to $10 million shopping mall and office center development for downtown Niles were unveiled during last night's meeting of the Niles city council.

The council authorized Mayor

Robert Woodbridge to execute an agreement that will give the Capital Investing Corp., Wallingford, Conn., an option to purchase 3.7 acres of land on the riverfront in downtown Niles for the commercial-professional development.

The agreement sets the purchase price for the urban renewal lot, located at the corner of Second and Main streets, at $85,000. A 10 per cent down payment of $8,500 will be required when the agreement is signed, the council said.

George Jorgensen, president of Capital Investing; Robert E. Bean, president of First Federal Savings and Loan of Niles, acting as local representative for the firm, and architect Jay Alpert, of Woodbridge, Conn., were on hand to provide details of the project for the council.

Bean said the development plan calls for two retail store buildings, one with 69,600 square feet and the second with 75,000 square feet, to be enclosed in a mall; a seven-story business-professional office building and an underground parking garage.

One of the retail buildings, to be three-stories tall and contain 69,600 square feet will house a major retail firm, but the firm's name has not been announced, Bean said. He said the second retail building in two stories, will house a variety of smaller retail firms.

Separate from the mall will be the seven-story business-professional office building, Bean said. The building will contain 45,000 square feet for offices.

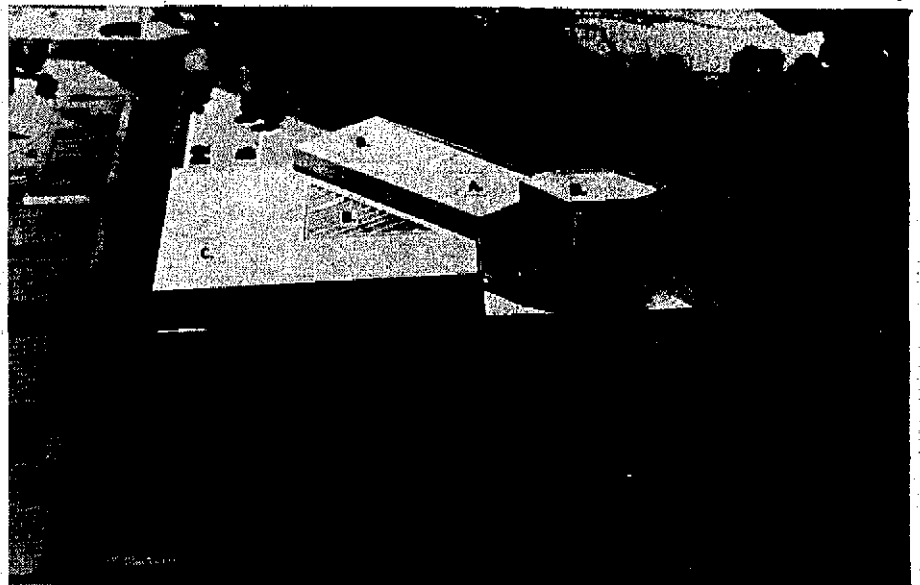

The parking garage, to be built under the development, will house 400 cars, Bean said.

The 3.7-acre site is bounded by Second and Main streets and the St. Joseph river, Bean said.

The project has been tentatively dubbed "Niles Center," but a contest to name the development will be staged at a later date, Bean said.

Bean said the developers, a "closely-held firm," hope to begin construction in about six months. A target completion date of Sept. 30, 1978, has been set, he added.

Bean said that once completed, the development could mean between 400 and 500 jobs for the Niles community. He said the developers plan to use all local contractors for the project.

Development would include major retail store and storage area, marked A and B; retail building containing several small shops, marked C; business and professional office building, marked D, and enclosed mall, E.

PROJECT SITE: Planned business-professional development announced in Niles last night would be constructed on 3.7-acre site along St. Joseph river. Triangle of land is bounded by Main and Second streets. Project would be built on city urban renewal lot. (1973 Adolph Hahn aerial photo)

Power Line Burns Boy, 8

By TOM SAWYER

Staff Writer

An eight-year-old Lincoln township boy was seriously burned Monday about 7 p.m. when he came in contact with a 7,200-volt electrical line that snapped and lay on the ground during Sunday night's windstorm.

Reported in "fair" condition today at the University of Michigan hospital burn center, Ann Arbor, was Darren Kurbis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kurbis, 8942 Wilshire terrace.

Berrien sheriff's deputies credited Arthur Schoech, 74, of 1471 Brentwood drive, Lincoln township, for rescuing the boy. Schoech dragged Darren away from the power line that had fallen in grove of small trees behind Schoech's home.

Schoech said he heard a scream at the rear of his home home, rushed outside and climbed over a four-foot fence when he saw the boy.

Despite the danger of being electrocuted himself, Schoech pulled Darren from within a foot of the wire where the boy lay flailing wildly.

"I don't think I did anything brave," Schoech said. "It was a natural reaction. You don't have time to think."

Schoech credited neighbors with calling an ambulance and helping comfort Darren until the ambulance arrived.

Schoech said the line came down about 8 p.m. Sunday and Tri-Unit firefighters extinguished two small brush fires that started as a result.

Rex Cassidy, Indiana & Michigan Electric company line supervisor, told Berrien deputies the company was unaware the large transmission line had not been repaired adding that there were many to repair after the storm.

Schoech said he believed neighbors had called about the downed line. The line was repaired by I&M crews shortly after the accident.

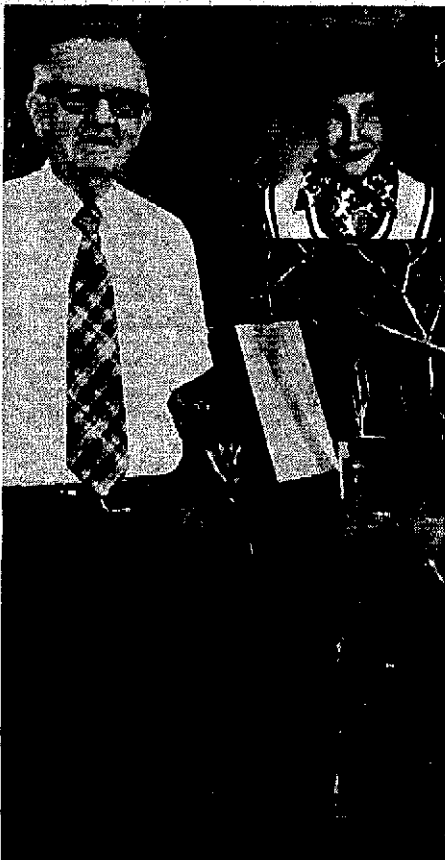

Grenade Kills 7 Students!

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — A hand grenade lobbed into a Roman Catholic school run by American Maryknoll nuns killed seven students and wounded 34 others in central Mindanao, school officials said today.

Sister Patricia Marie, 80, of Pittsburgh, Pa., had just stepped out of the room when the bomb exploded Monday morning, witnesses said. Two students died on the spot and five others died later in hospitals.

Initial reports Monday said the bomb killed four and wounded 26 others.

Witnesses said an unidentified boy hurled three grenades wrapped in newspaper at the school and then escaped into a rice field. School officials said only one grenade exploded.

NOT A DROWNING

Head Injury Was Cause Of Death

The cause of death of a Coloma township man has been listed as a "head injury" instead of drowning, according to Berrien County Sheriff Det. David Sweet. The body of Lee Pattison, 23, 5558 Paw Paw Lake road, was found by a friend along the shore of Lake Michigan near Corbett Cottages, 4510 U.S.-33 (North), Hagar township, shortly after he was reported missing. Death was first believed to have been caused by drowning. Sweet said the county sheriff's department is continuing to investigate the death.

National ID Card Idea Is Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal that every American be issued a national identity card or domestic passport apparently is dead after the federal Advisory Committee on False Identification rejected such a plan as a threat to personal privacy. The Justice Department task force instead has proposed a series of changes in the law to deal with the problem of criminal use of false identification, illegal immigration and Social Security fraud. One change would make it more difficult to obtain a false birth certificate.

The concept of an internal passport has been viewed by some as the most effective means of cutting down the problem. But Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard Thornburgh said Monday, "That type of solution has 1984 overtones" as a threat against personal privacy.

The panel recommended establishment of minimum federal standards to tighten the application procedures for birth certificates and drivers' licenses, and interstate procedures for matching birth and death certificates so dead persons' names cannot be assumed by criminals.

"There are an awful lot of dead people walking around committing crimes," said Thornburgh, whose criminal division sponsored the study. "The crime breeder document is the birth record."

Thornburgh put the cost of the false identity phenomenon at $20 million annually, a figure he said was conservative.

That includes $12 billion a year in federal and local tax burdens for illegal immigrants, $3 billion in check, credit card and other business fraud and $1 billion for drugs smuggled through false identification. Welfare, food stamp and Social Security abuses, and the extra law enforcement expenses necessary to catch fugitives using false identification account for the remainder.

In rejecting calls from some government officials for a national ID, the committee also suggested:

—State laws requiring identity verification before any person arrested can be released on bond; —Tighter, uniform standards for identification of welfare and Social Security applicants, and the direct deposit of benefit checks to the recipient's bank account, where practical.

—To prevent business crimes, the use of electronic funds transfer systems instead of exchanging papers susceptible to forgery and counterfeiting.

Once a person has falsely obtained a birth certificate, it is often easy to get a driver's license, a Social Security card, a U.S. passport, and other "impeccable" credentials. Even so, most states make little or no effort to verify the identity of a person applying for a copy of a birth certificate.

Thornburgh said a domestic passport might not be all that

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Watching The Wrong Bureaucratic Growth Pattern

Though the campaign oratory this year focuses strongly on the massive size of the federal payroll, some figures from the U.S. Department of Labor more than suggest the public might better keep its eye on developments closer to home.

The state and local payrolls in the past quarter century have spread faster than weeds in a newly cultivated field.

In 1950 total U.S. employment numbered not quite 59 million persons. This included just over 4 million state and local government personnel. Last year the total roll stood at 84,783,000 people, including 12 million state and local hires. Civilian employees of Uncle Sam during that same period rose from 1,928,000 to 2,748,000.

Percentage-wise, the total employment went up 44 per cent and federal jobholders increased by 43 per cent. The state-local bracket leaped by 193 per cent.

In that span the monthly state-local payroll ran $915 million in 1950. In 1974, the latest available reporting year, this tab advanced to better than $6.8 billion.

That 865 per cent gainer is twice what the total U.S. employment payout came to.

Somebody has to pay for more public servants and greater benefits for them. Here is the tax collection record for this state-local expansion.

The Long Johns Are Leveling Off

The late Harry S. Truman was noted for the dramatic manner in which he said he did not believe everything he read in the newspapers, and so many government agencies issue so many conflicting reports, we take Washington pronouncements with no less than two grains of salt.

However, a release issued last week by the National Center for Health Statistics, which is a part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, should be of more than passing interest to basketball and volleyball coaches.

We single out those gentry because on the authority of our sports editor, John Vanden Heede, height is not only a desirable characteristic for those athletes but as those games are struc-

In 1950 the property tax throughout the U.S. took in $7.349 billion. It reached $47.754 billion in 1974, for a hefty 550 per cent boost.

Sales tax receipts in 1950 came to $5.154 billion. Twenty years later they hit not quite $49.1 billion. That's a 794 per cent upward move.

The personal income tax collected by the state-local combine amounted to $788 million in 1950. Its 1974 yield was $18.481 billion, for close to a 2,400 per cent increase.

Any mention of the cost of living automatically calls attention to what one pays for food, home heating, telephone and electric services, a new automobile, a new house, and so on.

Virtually overlooked is the tab for teachers, policemen, firemen, public works employees and other categories in the state-local establishments.

Nonetheless what the citizen lays out for those services figures into the cost of living.

The more urbanized the U.S. becomes, the more apparent the need to hire people to teach, to run a sanitation plant or a waterworks, to safeguard life and property.

However, as the financial strains increase for state and local government, best dramatized by New York City's cliff hanging situation, the question cannot be avoided.

Is the public service business being overdone?

Asks County Board For Farm 'Harassment' Facts

Editor,

Your edition of February 20, 1978 reported on the adoption of a resolution by the Berrien County Board of Commissioners on Thursday, February 19, 1978, alleging that "farmers and growers in this area have been subject to harassment by employees of the Michigan Migrant Legal Assistance Project funded through the Governor's office by federal funds and have been forced in many cases to defend unwarranted and unfounded law suits claiming violations of the above health and labor regulations."

Having become aware of that resolution, I wrote on March 23, 1978 to Mr. Leslie Fischer, Chairman of the Berrien County Board of Commissioners, advising him that the State Bar of Michigan was vitally concerned if lawyers licensed to practice in this state were engaging in misconduct of the nature alleged. I further advised Mr.

Editor's Mailbag

Fischer that the State Bar of Michigan would be equally concerned if unfounded allegations of this nature were made against lawyers licensed to practice in this state in order to interfere with their effective representation of their clients.

I therefore requested Mr. Fischer to submit such documentation of the facts upon which the resolution of the Berrien County Board of Commissioners was predicated as that Board had in its possession. I specifically pointed out that the materials submitted in response to that request would be submitted to the Board of Commissioners of the State Bar of Michigan so that appropriate action could be considered and authorized.

More than two months have passed since my letter to Mr. Fischer and I have yet to receive an acknowledgement, much less the submission of any materials which would substantiate the resolution adopted by the Berrien County Board of Commissioners and publicly disseminated in your publication.

Congress Reform Sounds Nice...

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—In some regards, this is the absurd season in Congress.

Not because of the Hays-Ray matter. Rather because so many reform bills are being thrown into the hopper to impress the voters at home—or to ease the consciences of lawmakers. Almost none have a chance of passing in viable form.

What's tragic is that some of these bills, resolutions and proposed constitutional amendments, however poorly written, have noble objectives. After searching debate and some revision to correct sloppy thinking, the best of the proposals would be a credit to any Congress.

Take a resolution proposed by Congressman Peter Feyerherm (R-N.Y.). It would require that chairmen of all House committees step down after three Congresses (terms). And would stipulate that committee and subcommittee chairmen be selected without regard to seniority. The system would begin from scratch once the resolution passed.

An interesting thought. But dollars to doughnuts the measure will never pass.

A constitutional amendment recently put before the House would limit senators to three terms—or 18 years—and representatives to five terms—or 10 years. The countdown, would not begin, of course, until the constitutional amendment was passed and ratified. And would not count past service as of that date.

The aim is to insure the turnover which reportedly kept early American Congresses lively. But this amendment is not likely to win much favor among incumbents in either the Senate or House, whose members usually prefer to cling to their jobs.

There will be some support. A sincere young congressman I know has decided voluntarily to limit himself to four terms or less. He's the only such good example I've met.

Then there's the revised S. 495 reported by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.) and others. It would require the president, vice president, members of Congress, U.S. judges, federal employees of grade GS 16 and higher, armed forces officers of Colonel and (Navy) Captain rank and up and all those running for national office, to report in some detail their income, gifts received, assets and liabilities, dealings in securities, commodities and private business each 12 months. And purchase or sale of real property.

The bill provides for special prosecutors for investigation and action on certain federal crimes. And for stronger rules on conflict of interest in the legal divisions of government.

Some of these provisions may get through, perhaps, after emasculation. But this bill will most certainly not pass with stringing requirements. Loopholes will be inserted wide enough to drive a fleet of trucks through.

The list is endless. The gestures, today, are futile. No senator or representative is going to do anything which will hamper his style in getting re-elected. He may pad his name on a bill with a flourish, knowing nothing will happen. Or knowing that he can quietly block, delay or amend the measure endlessly in committee, or kill it on the Senate or House floor with fine sounding "improvements."

No, the way to congressional reform lies in the election of new senators and representatives who believe in the changes needed to wipe out the Congress's own secret Water-gates.

Here is the sorry point. Everyone talks about the presidential race. In most districts we are giving little thought to who is running for the Congress.

Jeffrey Hart

A Kindly View Of Wallace

A ghostly bugle now sounds taps for the presidential aspirations of George Corley Wallace and probably for his remaining political hope, a seat in the U.S. Senate.

Yet Wallace has been an important figure and even a prophetic one. History will no doubt look more kindly upon him than articulate opinion does at the moment.

When George Wallace began to gear up for the 1976 race, putting together an impressive organization and raising a substantial campaign fund, the question about him could have been put this way: Would Wallace turn out to be William Jennings Bryan or Andrew Jackson?

That is, would Wallace be a protest candidate who expressed powerful and popular themes but never made it to the presidency, or would he, like Andrew Jackson, ride the wave of popular protest all the way to the White House? Six months ago, the presidential possibility, though certainly a long shot, was by no means excluded.

Needless to say, Wallace has turned out to be Bryan.

Likewise, Wallace has been a prophetic figure, but also like Bryan he has never been able to move beyond a fatal provincialism. In his great Cross of Gold speech, Bryan gave a ringing statement of a Southern and Western protest against Wall Street and the magnates, just as Wallace in 1968 and 1972 articulated a massive popular revision against rule by bureaucratic and federal judge.

Bryan led the way for reforms that would seek to correct abuses of financial power, and history will surely view Wallace as leading the first significant national assault upon the social engineers and academic theoreticians responsible for much disastrous and expensive domestic policy today.

Woodrow Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt and later politicians, adopted many of Bryan's reformist and populist themes, and assimilated them to a more acceptable and "presidential" style.

As Wallace himself points out, Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan are now using the themes first articulated by Wallace. "Washington" is their synonym for Wallace's more flamboyant attacks on "pointy-headed bureaucrats" and social theorists who "don't know how to park a bicycle straight."

On occasion, Carter and Reagan can turn up the protest decibel to near-Wallace levels, as when Carter attacks his opponents for trying to preserve "their own entrenched, irresponsible, bankrupt, irresponsible political power."

Of course, timely themes do not necessarily make a president. Carter and Reagan may very well not turn out to be the inheritors of reform. But if neither Carter nor Reagan makes it, others will carve the word that Wallace has cut.

No doubt Wallace's paralysis has something to do with his political decline. His political destiny, however, has always been tied up in a curious way, with the power of Democratic left-liberalism.

As a political figure, Wallace was virtually called into existence by an aggressive leftism, rising with the issues and the social turbulence of the 1940s. With virtual treason in the air in the form of Vietnam banners and anti-American slogans, a Wallace movement was inevitable. But as the 1960s faded into the past, and liberalism itself becomes defensive and chastened, Wallace also loses his momentum and his power.

For George Corley Wallace, then, Hall and Fawcett. The beton has been passed. But he has played an important and, given the rough-and-tumble of democratic politics, on the whole salutary role in the politics of his time.

Recall Move Launched Against Helen Ford

The Benton Harbor recall committee is circulating petitions for a recall election of City Commissioner Helen Ford, charging "excessive absenteeism" from commission meetings, according to Morgan Hager, a member of the committee.

Mrs. Ford was absent from last night's city commission meeting and the remaining four commissioners — Arnold Bulin, Edmund Eaman, Charles Yarbrough and Alfred Williams — agreed to adjourn because of the lack of a quorum.

City Manager James Peebles, Jr., said Suzy Edwards, Berrien County Action, Inc., coordinator, called yesterday at 4 p.m. and said she and Mrs. Ford were in Lansing on BCA business. Mrs.

Ford is BCA executive director. Hager said Monday 450 signatures have been collected on petitions with a total of 651 required to force a recall election.

Hager said the committee intends to file those petitions today and complete the required number by the end of the week in an attempt to put the recall of Mrs. Ford on the ballot for Aug. 3 when there will be an election for four city commission seats recalled May 18. Mrs. Ford was a member of Mayor Charles Joseph's Clean Slate but was not on the May 18 recall ballot with Joseph and four other commissioners. She was appointed to the commission Feb. 9 — after the Clean Slate bloc's firing of Charles Morrison as city manager.

Mrs. Ford has attended only the June 7 commission meeting since the May 18 recall. At that meeting, Commissioner Alfred Williams, also a member of the Clean Slate, was absent. Mrs. Ford has claimed her business as executive director of BCA and a member of the city housing commission has prevented her from attending five meetings called by the city commission since the May 18 recall election.

Her travels have taken her, first to Chicago for a meeting connected with BCA, then, to St. Paul, Minn., for a conference on housing; to Bethesda, Md., to pick up a family planning grant at the headquarters of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), and twice to Lansing.

Hager said other charges on the recall petitions against Mrs. Ford are owing back taxes when appointed to the commission; promoting conflict of interest by voting for employment of a special city attorney who had represented her in court; participating in a partisan approach to city government through the Clean Slate when the charter calls for nonpartisanship.

Hager said Mrs. Ford is also charged with serving as chairman of the city compensation commission whose actions were held invalid, and with "malfeasance in office" by seeking to stop Atty. Yvonne Hughes from collecting personal effects from her office after Atty. Hughes "was wrongfully terminated."

BOOSTS ECONOMIC EDUCATION: Dr. Ray B. Loeschner (left), President of Olivet college, discusses economic education with A. Charles Lindbloom II, program co-chairman of the Lakeshore Chamber of Commerce, yesterday at McGrath's restaurant, Stevensville. Dr. Loeschner told group of Lakeshore chamber members it is important to teach the free enterprise system from the kindergarten on up. He said educators, the business community and private citizens must support a program to train teachers to teach how the American capitalism system works. (Staff photo)

Government Money Can't Save BH, Says Edwards

Involvement and investment of local people is needed before any improvement can be made in this area, J. Howard Edwards, executive director of Area Resources Improvement Council (ARIC), told volunteers who are participating in the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce two-week membership drive.

Edwards was the keynote speaker at the membership kickoff breakfast yesterday at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn.

Edwards said government alone cannot solve the problems of an area — it must be done by local people working, planning and investing in the area and it must be profitable for them.

He said in the past he has seen numerous solutions tried to curtail the deterioration of Benton Harbor. He called the replacement of buildings with parking lots a fiasco. He questioned the need for parking lots if businesses were moving out of the downtown area. He called the urban renewal program the "urban removal program" as no new firms have replaced the old ones.

He said TRICAP was tried as a solution to the problems of Benton Harbor and it ended up with everyone in Benton Harbor fighting before it was over. TRICAP was replaced with Model Cities and 20 millions dollars later the greatest thing that had happened with the program was the paving of Wauconda avenue, Edwards said.

These were among the government programs Edwards listed as not being successful. He emphasized that the Chamber of Commerce is the only organization that is interested and working for the community. He stated that he once was not an advocate of the Chamber, but feels that now it is moving in the right direction.

He concluded by urging the volunteers to go out and sell business prospects on the fact that they are the important ingredient to the success of the area and that they should become involved by joining the Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber president John Banyon presided at the breakfast meeting and introduced Edwards.

Monitor Sound Faces Loan Suit

United Community Development corporation has filed a suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking payment of $1,900 allegedly due on loans made last year to Monitor Sound Systems, Inc., of Benton Harbor.

The suit also asks that Monitor Sound be prevented from removing or encumbering any assets from Benton Harbor until terms and conditions of the loan agreement have been met.

In the suit it is charged that Monitor Sound President O.J. Partl has threatened to move the firm's entire operation to the west coast and that more than $,000 complete intercom units have already been moved to a warehouse on the west coast.

United Community Development corporation was organized last year by Benton Harbor business people to act as a liaison between business and governmental agencies in obtaining funds for business and industrial growth.

Using funds from a federal Community Development grant, the corporation last fall loaned Monitor Sound $25,000 at six percent interest the suit declares; but has been unsuccessful in repeated and numerous demands for repayment due under terms of the loans.

The suit also contends that expenditures of more than $20,000 have been made from an escrow account although the expenditures have neither been approved nor supervised by any member of United Community Development.

Monitor Sound started production of battery-operated intercom units in January with help of the $25,000 in loans and a Michigan Department of Labor grant for training workers with CETA funds, but has been plagued by financial problems since then. Officials of Monitor could not be reached for possible comment on the suit.

The firm, located at 59 Wall street, was forced to halt production in February and last month was reported to have only seven employees on the job.

In March the firm was charged with failure to pay wages to three employees, but the Berrien prosecutor's office announced last month that those claims had been settled.

The suit was filed for United Community Development corporation by Yvonne Hughes, the corporation's attorney. Officers

Key Murder Case Witness Says Police Ignored Him

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

A Berrien Fifth District court witness, who claimed police had hurt his feelings during a murder investigation, testified yesterday that he saw a man who looked like the suspect near the area where a girl's skeleton was found.

Roy Anderson, of 1550 True road, Berrien township, testified in the preliminary examination for Charles E. Neal, of Benton Harbor, accused of murdering Laverne Cornelius. The hearing was to continue today.

Miss Cornelius, 17, of 1823 Eastland avenue, Benton township, disappeared from her home on Feb. 7, 1975, and her skeleton was found two months later in a Berrien township pine grove.

Anderson testified yesterday that police searching the area for bones once shunned his questions on what they were doing there. "And after the police hurt my feelings I just forgot it," he testified. Anderson did not identify the police department involved.

Anderson testified that he saw a man "that looked like him (Neal)" in the driver's side of a car parked on True road Feb. 7, 1975; the night Miss Cornelius disappeared from home.

The car was parked on the shoulder of the road, next to the pine grove in which the girl's clothing and parts of the girl's body were later found by police, according to Anderson's testimony.

Although it was night, Anderson testified that he "could see real good." He testified that a second person, "a lady," was standing outside the car when his truck approached. The person "rushed back to the car and hid down in the seat," apparently trying to hide from Anderson, he testified. "I just looked and kept driving," he said.

In court, Anderson looked at a photograph of a coat that was found in the pine grove and which allegedly belonged to Miss Cornelius. The person he saw run back into the car that night was wearing a similar garment, he testified.

Anderson testified that although police questioned him more than once about whether he'd seen anything unusual that night, it wasn't until this month that he told investigators about seeing the auto and the two persons near the pine grove.

Physical Anthropologist Robert Sundick, of Western Michigan University, testified that the few body parts recovered from the area — a skull and portions of 12 bones — suggested "no evidence of foul play." None of yesterday's testimony involved the cause of death of the girl.

The girl's father, Robert E. Cornelius, told the court that he'd seen Neal with his daughter a couple of times at their home. He testified that his daughter told him she was pregnant and "looking forward to having a baby" within three months of her disappearance from home.

Det. Sgt. Wayne Long, of the Niles State Police post, testified that he found the coat, a pile of clothes and some human hair close together in the dense grove of trees.

In the pile of clothing was a three-foot length of rope, Long testified. An expert witness from the Holland Crime Laboratory told the court that the rope contained traces of human or animal blood. The hair was from a black person.

Testimony indicated that the badly decomposed body was spread around the pine grove and an orchard across the street by animals.

With the exception of the press, Neal's close friends and members of his family, spectators were barred from the courtroom for security reasons, Chief Asst. Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell said.

Witnesses waiting to testify were also barred, on motion by Atty. Peter Kosick, representing Neal. Neal owns Mr. Neal's Karate school in Benton Harbor.

URGES BUDGET HIKE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study by the National Strategy Information Center says the Ford administration's record $111-billion defense budget must be increased substantially over the next 10 years to prevent Russia from achieving strategic superiority.

St. Joe Board Is Girding For Jobless Claims

The St. Joseph board of education last night hired Reed-Roberts Associates, a Birmingham, Mich., consulting firm to represent the district in all matters that may come before the Michigan Employment Security commission (MESC).

District Business Manager Dennis Percy explained the action was taken in case any district personnel file claims for unemployment compensation during the summer months. Reed-Roberts would handle appeals for the board.

Percy said last year two "pink-slipped" teachers filed claims and there is a possibility other personnel may do so this year. He said the Michigan Education association is seeking test cases in courts to determine if teachers can get summer compensation.

Percy said the cost for the consulting firm's services will be about $700 for the coming year. He said other school districts in Berrien county may hire the same firm.

The board also approved the purchase of window shades for Washington elementary school, $3,200, and Jefferson elementary school, $600. They will be purchased from Spartan School Equipment Co., Berrien Springs.

There was further discussion,

SJ Outlines Uses For Revenue Share

St. Joseph city commissioners last night approved a tentative plan for spending $75,674 in federal revenue sharing money for a six-month period beginning July 1.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said the broad outline can be altered. It does not contain specifics, Hepler said the city began receiving revenue sharing money five years ago and the upcoming six months is the seventh and last entitlement period of that five-year program.

The city commission approved the following intended uses for the money:

- Public safety, $24,700.
- Public transportation, $20,000.
- Recreation, $2,000.
- Multi-purpose and general government, $28,974.

In another area of federal funding, the office of Fourth District U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson, St. Joseph, announced earlier yesterday that the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved a $71,000 grant for St. Joseph's second-year Community Development program.

Hepler said the $71,000 Community Development grant is the same amount the city received for the first program year. He said the second program year is to begin in July.

The new $71,000 grant is to be used mostly in housing areas, Hepler said. Hutchinson's office listed the grant uses to include rehabilitation, acquisition, demolition, contingencies and administration.

Hutchinson's office also reported yesterday that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has earmarked $594,588 for continued maintenance and renovation of the south pier at St. Joseph.

Hepler said renovation of the south pier has been an on-going project by the Army Corps of Engineers for several years.

In other business at last night's meeting, the commission passed the first reading of an ordinance to raise license fees. The ordinance will raise the cost of purchasing a license in several areas ranging from peddlers and hawkers to carnivals and fairs.

The increases raise the license fees from $5 to $25 for daily licenses and from $100 to either $300 or $500 for yearly licenses depending on what the license is for.

Earlier in the year, Mayor Franklin Smith handed down an order in the city clerk that did basically the same thing. However, City Atty. Arthur G. Preston Jr. said last night he thought the order may not have been legal and an ordinance was needed to amend the license fees.

The commission also voted to allow a group of 4-H club members to ride their horses through the city with a police escort as part of a Bicentennial celebration the group is planning. The group of 13 riders, from the Clover Clovers 4-H club, Coloma, is riding from Mackinaw City to St. Joseph. The riders will start June 21 and are scheduled to arrive in St. Joseph July 2.

Select Women's Studies

EAST LANSING — Michigan State university's thematic program in women's studies has been selected for the coming academic year, with 11 courses scheduled for fall, seven for winter and seven for spring. Another three courses will be available this summer.

The thematic program is interdisciplinary and includes a requirement of 20 credits chosen from at least three different disciplines in a selected list of 12 academic areas. Up to 20 per cent of the credits can be taken as independent study or special problem study, provided prior approval has been obtained from the academic area.

Certification of successful completion of the program can be included in the student's academic record and transcript. Coordinating the 1976-77 program are Dr. Joyce Ladenson, associate professor of American thought and language, and Judith Baker, Holt, senior in criminal justice and a member of MSU's Honors college.

Additional information may be obtained from academic advisors, assistant deans in each college and the assistant provost for undergraduate education.

Summer term courses are on human sexuality and the family, philosophical aspects of feminism and sex roles. Fall courses are repeats of the three in summer along with a comparative study of status of women in cultures and society, women and literature, women in industrial society, biological perspectives on the women's liberation movement, problems in science related to human sex differences and a related independent study, selected topics in the psychology of women and women and minorities in the world of work.

Fathers Of The Famous Are Often Little Known

What do you know about George Washington's father? Or Hitler's, or Beethoven's or Pope John's? And what did Ben Franklin and Shakespeare say about their dads?

Just ahead of Father's Day, June 20, here are some facts about the oft-forgotten fathers of famous men.

For instance, the father of "The Father of His Country" was Augustine Washington, an English-educated Virginia landowner who died when George was only 11.

And perhaps it was William Shakespeare's father, John, a butcher by trade, who inspired his son to write: "If I chance to talk a little wild, forgive me. I had it from my father."

Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler reportedly despised his shoemaker father Alois, illegitimate son of Maria Schickelgruber and a man known variously as Huetler, Hiedler or Hiltner.

But Samuel Pepys, the 17th-century English diarist, felt warmer about his father, John. On May 1, 1663, he wrote: "Advised my father to good husbandry, and to be living within the compass of 50 pounds a year and all in such good words as not only made him but myself weep."

Composer Ludwig van Beethoven had a father who was an unsuccessful tenor singer. According to researchers, he was bad-tempered and rarely sober, but insisted upon his son learning music at the age of five. At 15, Beethoven was supporting his family.

Benjamin Franklin's father? Named Josiah, he emigrated from England to Boston in 1685 and became a maker of soap and candles. Ben describes him affectionately: "He was of middle stature, very strong; he was ingenious, could draw prettily, was skilled a little in music and had a clear, pleasing voice. He had a mechanical genius, too. But his great excellence lay in prudential matters, both in private and public affairs." Like father, like son...

By contrast, these words are by Sir William Wilde's playwright offspring, Oscar: "fathers should be neither seen nor heard. This is the only proper basis for family life."

Christopher Columbus's father, Domenico, sent his son to the University of Pavia to study astronomy, geometry and cosmography. But the senior Columbus became angry when, at 14, Christopher abandoned his studies and became a sailor. More recently, industrialist Henry Ford's father, William, supposedly criticized his teenage son for repairing neighbors' clocks and watches without charge, to improve his mechanical knowledge.

The English poet Tennyson, one of 12 children born to his stern clergyman father, George, once wrote: "How many a father I have seen, a sober man among his boys, whose youth was full of foolish noise."

Other famous men with little-known fathers include Thomas Jefferson, whose father, Peter, was a civil engineer working for the British government; Pope John XXIII, born Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli, who took his papal name from his father, John; Bing Crosby, son of a bookkeeper in a Tacoma pickle factory; Mark Twain, whose father "Judge" Clemens was a Tennessee storekeeper and lawyer; movie director Alfred Hitchcock, son of William Hitchcock, a London fruit merchant; Charles Dickens, whose father, John, was a debt-ridden Naval pay-clerk and supposedly the model for Micawber in "David Copperfield," and former President Richard Nixon, whose father, Francis, had a lemon farm in Yorba Linda, Calif.

Vegetables Coming To Market

A complete garden mixture of spring vegetables is coming to market this month in heavy supply, according to Maryann Beckman, District Food Marketing Agent.

Since supplies are so large, growers are receiving about one-third less than both last year's prices and the overall three-year average. Retail prices are reflecting these decreased prices too, so now is the time to take advantage of these top notch and lower priced vegetables.

The abundant supply of many of these vegetables is expected to continue through the month of June, so it is time to plan lots of salads, fresh vegetable snacks and many more vegetable dishes in menus to take advantage of the lower prices and nutritional values offered.

Cabbage, carrots, onions, sweet corn, cucumbers, lettuce and green peppers are the vegetables in greatest supply right now, so some general buying and use rules are in order. First of all, look for vegetables that are well-formed, of bright and clear color and firm to the touch. If they look good, chances are they will be good. Fresh appearance is one selection guide.

When choosing sweet corn, look for fresh looking ears with green husks and deep brown tassel ends. The dark brown silks are an indication that the ears are harvest-ready and not too old either. If corn is already husked, look for bright, plump and milky kernels in nice even rows. Any kernels that are denied, are too old for best flavor. Remember to keep corn cool once you get it home and then use it as soon as possible for best sugary-sweet taste; heat changes corn sugars to starch quickly.

Carrots now on markets are brightly colored and firm. They are young and tender now and are at their best for use as carrot sticks as well as cooked vegetables. Avoid those with large, sunburned (green) areas at the tops; they will be bitter.

Green peppers should be firm, with thick walls and a glossy deep-green color. Soft, watery and/or opaque looking spots should be avoided as well as those with wrinkled skins. They will decay quickly or wilt to flabby texture that cannot be revived.

Cabbage heads should be fairly heavy for their size and firm, with only a few loose outer wrapper leaves. Again, fresh appearance is the key word. Cucumbers, too, should have good green color and be firm over the entire length. Avoid extra large, overgrown cukes; interiors may be hollow and overall color is dull.

Both green onions and dry onions are also in peak supply. Prices have been lower than a year ago, but demand has been moderate, even with these lower prices. Lettuce, on the other hand, has been of variable quality and therefore offered also at varying prices. Quality is beginning to improve now and good quality heads are available in most all markets at lower prices.

Tomatoes are beginning to taste like tomatoes again, as increasing supplies are coming from both California and Mexico, Mrs. Beckman says. Consumers are obviously aware of this also for demand is reported good as quality improves and prices are beginning to go down.

All these abundant vegetables suggest lots of good eating for those who are especially watching both the budgets and the bulges. All these vegetables offer economy as well as few calories so should be included often in meals now.

One popular summertime treat that includes several of these vegetables is cole slaw. The following recipe is one that is often requested, according to Mrs. Beckman, for its such a good keeper as well as a tasty dish. It will keep for five to seven days in the refrigerator and improves with age.

Combine grated cabbage with shredded carrots, diced green peppers and chopped onions in any proportion you like best. Then mix one-half cup sugar, two-thirds cup vinegar, one-half cup water, one-half cup cooking oil, one teaspoon celery seed and one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Pour over vegetables and let stand overnight in refrigerator in covered bowl. If you have too much dressing for the amount of vegetables, keep it in a covered jar in the refrigerator for later use. It will keep many weeks when refrigerated.

Now officers will be installed by Patricia Ludwig, president of the Michigan Hospital Association, at the Thursday night banquet.

Overmedicated Society

When the first sign of a headache appears, it's easy to run to the medicine cabinet for an aspirin. Or when it's difficult falling asleep, it's easy to pop a pill.

"Americans are an overmedicated society," says Dr. Richard Baldwin, D.O., and associate professor in Michigan State University's Department of Family Medicine. "Each year consumers spend an extra $4 billion for office calls and hospital bills related to medication reactions."

Preventing these bad reactions is the responsibility of both the physician and patient, according to Lois F. Marsh, Cass county extension home economist. The physician should always give the patient an examination and a reasonable explanation before prescribing medications.

Unfortunately, she says, some patients are not satisfied unless they are given a medication, even though it might not be needed. Theoretically the doctor should spend time explaining why a medication isn't necessary. But because of the doctor shortage and busy schedules, physicians may not always be able to spend time explaining.

Patients have a responsibility to tell the doctor what medications (both prescribed and non-prescribed) they are taking, according to Marsh. When certain medicines are mixed, they may cause bad side effects such as dizziness, poor coordination, difficulty in breathing, etc.

Another problem is the sharing of medications, she says. Someone's son may have a bad virus and the parent remembers that last year when someone else in the family was sick the doctor prescribed antibiotics. There are some left over and so the parent gives them to the child.

When the doctor prescribes a pill, he knows what the side effects will be. He also knows that every individual is different and what is good for one patient may not be for another. Also different age groups require different dosages, Marsh adds. The elderly are more susceptible to drug toxicity than younger people, she says, because their elimination system slows down and their bodies can retain excessive amounts of drugs. An overly toxic situation may result.

Pregnant women must be especially careful when taking medication. Certain drugs may be okay to take during the first few months of pregnancy, but not later on, Marsh says. The reverse is also true. Many drugs have not been tested with pregnant women, so they should consult their physicians before taking either prescribed or nonprescribed drugs.

Concern about taking medications shouldn't stop after the baby is born. Parents play an extremely important role in helping children establish healthy attitudes towards medications, according to Dr. Donald Avano, MSU associate professor in community medicine.

Parents must teach their children that drugs aren't the cure-all for everything, Marsh emphasizes. There are alternatives. If a person can't fall asleep, he should read a book or watch television instead of popping a pill.

She says children must learn that the first decision they should make is should they take a medication and not which medicine should they take.

UAW Hits Blues Chief's Pay Hike

DETROIT (AP) — A recent $13,000 salary increase for Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield President John McCabe has come under sharp attack from the United Auto Workers as "out of place for a non-profit, quasi-public agency."

UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser said Monday the union's representative on the Blues board last week voted against increasing McCabe's salary to $99,000 a year.

He said this was a protest of the "size and frequency of such increases" when the agency is supposed to be cutting costs.

Fraser also criticized the Blues for "having 32 vice presidents when 'General Motors Corp., one of the world's largest concerns, has 37 vice presidents."

"The question is, do the Blues need 32 vice presidents, whatever their pay?" Fraser asked. He estimated total Blues vice presidential salaries at $1.3 million.

Fraser called for a freeze on the salaries of all Blues executives making more than $90,000 "until costs have been brought down and subscribers are no longer hit by constant premium increases."

Childs' Slaying Leads Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Authorities say they are without a solid lead in the shotgun slaying of David Childs, a Lansing fireman and son of a former State Police director.

"We've been trying to put stuff together but so far we haven't come up with a motive," said Eaton County Sheriff Gene Huag Munday, who is heading the investigation. State Police and Lansing Police have joined the probe.

Childs, 37, the son of the late Joseph A. Childs, a former State Police commissioner, was gunned down early Saturday, officials said. His bloody body was found Saturday morning, stuffed in the trunk of his 1975 Cadillac, abandoned on an Eaton County road near Lansing.

An autopsy showed Childs died from a single shot, probably from a 12-gauge shotgun fired at point blank range, Huag said. The shot "made a big hole" in Childs' chest, Huag said.

Huag said Childs probably was killed somewhere else, packed into the trunk and driven to the spot where a routine road patrol found him. The keys were not in the car when deputies found it, police said.

Childs owned a small masonry contracting firm and had been a Lansing fireman for 12 years, working most recently as an engineer, or driver. His former wife, Carolyn G. Childs, lives in Lansing with their three children, Marnie, 11, Erika, 8, and Chad, 4.

Police said they had found one individual who saw Childs as late as 2:15 a.m. Saturday. The individual, identified as a friend of Childs, took him home at that time, police said.

Prior to leaving his friend, police said, Childs had gone to his mother's home in Haslett and visited with his children. His sister, Judith Hagenbuch, said Childs was "in a really good mood."

Fellow firemen described Childs as "gentle and easy-going." He was to report to work at 4:30 a.m. but never arrived, leading Huag to the conclusion he was killed sometime between 2:15 and 4:30 Saturday morning.

Reagan's Age Worries Voter

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Ronald Reagan needs to grow a little older before becoming President, says 95-year-old Spanish-American War veteran Ward Barrett.

"He's too young, and youth is liable to extremes," said Barrett of the 65-year-old former California governor.

"Reagan's a little extreme. Well-wishing, of course, but being 95 years old I can see the extremes in some people," Barrett said Monday.

Barrett is senior vice commander of the Michigan branch of the United Spanish War Veterans. The brief 1898 war was sparked by the explosion of the American battleship Maine in Havana Harbor.

Barrett, a lifelong Republican, and national veteran commander Cleo G. Brown, 96, of Indianapolis, both say they plan to vote on Nov. 2 for President Ford, 63.

Ford's youth, said Barrett, is outweighed by his experience in office. "Ford knows all the secrets that Reagan would have to learn."

Barrett and Brown were part of a small annual gathering of Michigan Spanish War veterans, their widows and daughters.

Some 750 veterans are believed to be still living.

COLLEAGUES SAY QUIT

Rep. Howe Pressured To Resign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Allan Howe was reported ready to enter an innocent plea at his arraignment on charges of soliciting sex from two Salt Lake police decoy prostitutes as Mrs. Gardner also claims she was paid a premium salary and was not asked to do much work so she would be available as a sexual partner for Young, who calls her charges "poppycock."

'Senator Sam'

Says He's Safe

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ex-Senator Sam Ervin, who gained fame heading the probe into Watergate corruption, says he never heard much about sexual hanky-panky on Capitol Hill during his 20 years there. "Well, I guess that kind of sin has been going on for a long time in this world," the 79-year-old North Carolinian said Monday on his way to deliver a commencement address in Anderson, Ind. "That just shows that people tend to succumb to temptations of the flesh. But I never heard much about it while I was there." Ervin said he wasn't worried about anyone trying to dig up dirt on him. "The statute of limitations has already run out on all my past indiscretions. And more unfortunately, I have lost all capacity to commit any more."

The Utah Democrat promised a response to pressure from congressional colleagues to resign. Arraignment was set today in Salt Lake City court on a misdemeanor charge. Howe was arrested Saturday night after allegedly offering two police decoys $20 for sex acts. It was reported that an innocent plea would be entered by Howe's attorney, Wayne L. Black, Democratic national committeeman for Utah, and Howe was not expected to appear. Howe has proclaimed his innocence to reporters, claiming he was "set up."

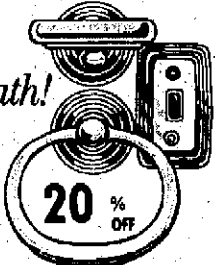

Meanwhile, Colleen Gardner said she plans to talk to the U.S. attorney in Washington today about evidence she allegedly has of questionable sexual activities on Capitol Hill.

Mrs. Gardner has said she knows of a sexual rendezvous arranged by a congressman between Elizabeth Ray and Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, and of instances where her former boss, Rep. John Young, D-Tex., pressured her and other staffers to have sex with him.

Miss Ray has told the FBI that her sexual encounter with Gravel was arranged by then-Rep. Kenneth Gray, D-Ill., her one-time boss, who hoped to influence Gravel's position on public works legislation.

of Monday and chaired a hearing on Capitol Hill, Howe faced a decision about his political career because Utah Democrats are meeting this weekend to plan their slate for this November.

The 48-year-old Morimon met Monday with Sen. Frank Moss and Rep. Gunn McKay, both Utah Democrats up for re-election this year. Moss said he urged Howe to not seek re-election. He said Howe's candidacy could weaken the Democratic ticket.

Howe said in a Monday television interview with KTVX of Salt Lake City that he was considering resigning. "It may happen," he said.

Howe was a Moss aide in the early 1960s. Moss said any attempt for re-election by Howe "would do considerable damage, not only to us (Utah Democrats), but to all Democrats simply because people have a feeling there is something wrong going on in Washington."

Miss Ray has told the FBI she had sex with Gravel during a small party on Gray's houseboat on the Potomac River the night of Aug. 10, 1972, after Gray told her to do so, a source has said. The source said Miss Ray understood this to be an order.

Gray, who retired last year, said Monday he is meeting with federal investigators to prove he could not have influenced Gravel's support for the National Visitors Center, as Miss Ray has reportedly told investigators.

The visitors' center was a $44-million parking and visitor information facility at Washington's Union Railroad Station near the Capitol. Gray, chairman of the House subcommittee on public buildings in 1972, crusaded for years to have it built.

Gravel told the Anchorage Times, "I was not on the boat at any party which they (Miss Ray and Mrs. Gardner) mentioned."

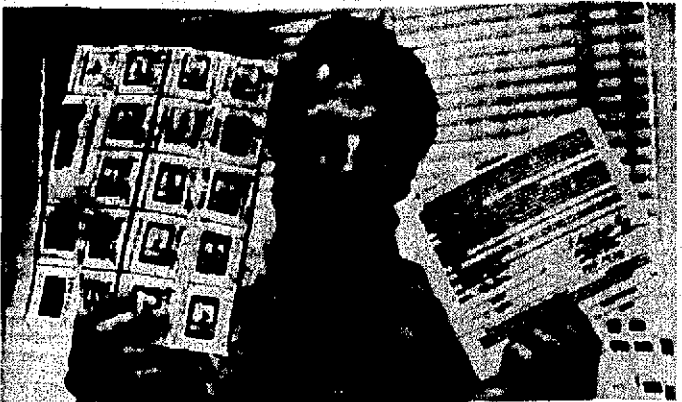

"One member of Congress does not bribe another member of Congress," Gravel said in an interview. "As to the charge of having sex with Ray, if there were any, that's a private situation."

Gray told a reporter, "I've got my logs. The record clearly and indisputably shows that on the 9th and 10th of August 1972, in public hearings, we were considering the Eisenhower Civic Center — not the visitors' center. . . . Told of Gray's assertion, Miss Ray said Monday, "I am vague. I don't know if it is the Visitors Center or the Washington Civic Center."

The Eisenhower Civic Center, to be built a few blocks from the visitors' center, was another project Gray was pushing.

Searching her memory in an exchange with a reporter, Miss Ray said, "The one he told me was the 1876 Bicentennial — he said at Union Station, and that was his bill."

However, later in the exchange, she said it was a bill that was signed into law or that came up for consideration on Aug. 10, 1972.

NUDES OF ELIZABETH RAY: Barry Blackman holds contact sheet of nude photographs of Elizabeth Ray and a signed release, dated Sept. 16, 1972. Blackman, a Washington photographer, said at a news conference Monday Miss Ray asked him in 1972 to shoot some nude photographs of her for submissions to Playboy magazine. Magazine rejected them; he said. Photographs are now being offered for sale with a $20,000 to $25,000 price tag. (AP Wirephoto) would support the Illinois congressman's visitors' center project during a Senate Public Works Committee hearing on Aug. 11, the day after the alleged houseboat party.

The Congressional Record shows the committee met Aug. 11, 1972, and approved a bill authorizing expansion of the New Senate Office Building. There is no mention of discussion of the visitors' center.

However, one week later, on Aug. 18, Gravel introduced a bill to authorize the convention center.

In Ohio, Rep. Wayne Hays — recovering from last week's overdose of sleeping pills — probably will be discharged from the Barnesville Hospital Friday or Saturday, hospital officials say.

The 65-year-old Democratic congressman, a key figure in the congressional payroll-sex scandal, was reported in satisfactory condition. The controversy broke when Elizabeth Ray said Hays had her placed on his congressional payroll as a secretary so she could be available to him as his mistress.

Hays has admitted having a "personal relationship" with Miss Ray, but he has disputed her charge that she was on his payroll only to be his mistress.

No one has said yet whether the overdose was a suicide attempt or an accident.

Hays is expected to spend several days resting after he is released from the hospital.

Buchanan Eyes Development Planning

BUCHANAN — Proposals calling for a reappraisal of industrial property in Buchanan and the creation of a downtown development authority will be considered by the city commission Wednesday, June 16.

The commission agreed last night to hold a special work session at 7:30 p.m. in city hall to review the proposals.

Richard Bell, city assessor, recommended to the commission that United Appraisal Co. be hired to make the reappraisal before the March meetings of the city's board of review.

In May, 1975 Clark Equipment company appealed to the state tax tribunal an $8 million jump in its personal property tax assessments for 1975. The firm objected to a boost of $13.5 million to $22.3 million in the assessment set by the city.

The appeal is still pending, according to Richard Erickson of the state tax tribunal in Lansing, however, no motions by either party have been filed since Dec. 30.

The downtown development proposal would create an authority charged with halting declining property tax valuation in the city's business district and to promote economic growth of the area.

A resolution concerning the authority would give the proposed unit power to encourage historic preservation of downtown property; acquire and dispose of land in the area; create and implement development plans and levy taxes.

The commission will also consider applying for federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds to hire a trainee at the city's waste water disposal plant.

In other areas, the commission approved a contract with Century Engineering Co., St. Joseph, to provide engineering services in the replacement of three bridges in the city. No date for construction has been set.

The St. Joseph firm will be paid a total of $11,000 for its work. Payments are to be made at the completion of bridges over McCoy's creek at Alexander and South Oak streets, and for a bridge over McCoy's creek mill race, also on South Oak.

Payment of $3,753 to a volunteer group for materials needed to resurface the city's tennis courts was approved. The group, headed by Harry Kennedy, was praised for its work.

Four bids for road salt, ranging from $17.50 per ton to $18.50 per ton were rejected by the commission because they were too high. The commission agreed to attempt to work with the county road commission to purchase the salt.

Appointment of Gerald Radde, 807 West Roe street, to the city planning commission, and Robert Welsh, 220 Huron drive, to the city Bicentennial committee, were approved. Welsh will represent the city's Chamber of Commerce.

The commission instructed Mayor Joseph Garbert to write a resolution commending Galien for its Americans Together Day and to commend the Galien volunteer ambulance group for its assistance in providing ambulance service to the city while the Southwest Michigan Community Ambulance service was formed.

An appraisal of $3,000 on two lots owned by John G. Yurington Construction Co., St. Joseph, by Sexton Real Estate Co., Buchanan was accepted. Purchase of the two lots, site of the former county garage, at a cost of $3,800, was delayed for consideration at the June 16 work session.

Child Growth Levels Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — For years, fathers have felt uneasy about scolding their taller sons. But fathers and sons of the future may see more eye-to-eye because the growth rate for American children appears to have leveled off. Boys and girls today are no taller than children were 20 years ago, the National Center for Health Statistics said this week, noting the end of a 100-year trend of youths outstripping their elders in size. The average 18-year-old American boy today stands 5 feet 9.2 inches and weighs over 150 pounds. In 1876 the average 18-year-old boy was 5 feet 5 inches. In 1776, Revolutionary War records indicate the average recruit stood a fraction over 5 feet 5.

Bangor Sports Decision Blasted

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

BANGOR — A decision by the Bangor school board to reinstate high school fall sports next year came under fire from two former board members last night.

The sports, football, cross country, and girls basketball, had been eliminated last fall as one of several budget cutting measures. The board voted 6 to 1 last night to restore the programs, at an estimated cost of $8,000.

But both Fred Waite and Richard Krogel, who were among five board members recalled in a Feb. 2 election, were critical. Waite said he did not see how the sports could be restored when the board was not sure of what its costs or revenues would be. Krogel said he thought the money might better be spent to retire four elementary school teachers dropped during the cutback.

According to figures released last night by Dr. Frederick Durham, board president, the district expects the expenses for its basic program next year to be $1,796,000, with revenues anticipated at only $1,769,000. The deficit, Dr. Durham said, will probably be made up by a current $30,000 cash on hand balance.

However, he said, the budget does not include roughly another $145,000 in other possible items. Those tentative figures include: sports, $24,000; scheduled teacher salary increases, $28,000; three additional teachers, $30,000; raises for non-certified personnel, $2,800; a one per cent new pay raise for teachers, $12,000; high school band, $1,050; athletic director, $2,500; audio-visual, $750; lab and shop fees, $6,000; advisors, $1,800; and driver's training, $3,000; and teacher insurance, $26,400.

Under questioning by Waite, Dr. Durham said he could not say for sure if the board would ask for additional millage this fall, but said the district could operate on present funds if enough cuts were made.

Board Member Otto Watkins, said any decision on additional millage would have to be made by the board by July, so that a proposal could be placed on the ballot in September to meet the deadline for the spreading of the tax rolls.

Norman Johnson, athletic director, said he had been able to make up a fall athletic schedule, but because the district had not had any program last year, it would mean the football team would have only three home games next season.

An amendment by Dr. Durham to tie the restoration of the fall sports to the results of teacher contract negotiations died for lack of a second. Voting for the restoration were Watkins, Clara Singer, Mildred Royal, Peggy Phillips, and George Denny, with Dr. Durham against and Harold Wright absent.

In other areas, the board approved the re-assignment of football coach Terrence Olden to coach cross country. The board voted to advertise for a new football coach, guidance counselor, and yearbook adviser.

A bid of $20,547 by Stafford Smith, Inc., Kalamazoo, low among four received, was accepted for kitchen equipment at the new middle school. The board also authorized its architect to advertise for bids for the new high school athletic complex.

Street Project Gets Approval In Bangor

BANGOR — There were no objections last night during a public hearing held by the Bangor city council on a proposed $25,000 project to replace curbs, gutters and sidewalks in the downtown area.

The cost of the project is to be split equally between the city and the property owners along a three-block stretch of Monroe street who will benefit from the sidewalk program. Following the hearing, the council voted to proceed with the project and begin entering into contracts with the property owners.

The West Michigan Savings bank was given permission to install a new sidewalk and curb right now in front of the bank's new building now under construction. The city will reimburse the bank for the city's share of the cost at a later date, councilmen said. In other areas, the council approved an operating license for Dwight Herron to run a games and billiard arcade at 2 East High street. It will be called D and P Enterprises. The youth gathering spot had previously been known as Jimmy's Rock under a different owner. The license for that business was revoked by the council last month in the wake of complaints about alleged illegal drug activities at the center. The council voted to sell a 36-inch tractor mower to Angelo Rigozzi, the highest of two bidders, for $502. It was announced that Gerald Warren has resigned as building inspector.

Coloma Ponders Utilities Request

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission last night referred a request to extend city water and sewer lines into Coloma township to the public works committee for review.

The request from LaVern Rice Real Estate, of Hartford, asked the city to extend services to Ryno road, in Coloma township.

Royalton Creates New Board

The Royalton township board last night voted to create a three-member zoning board of appeals, according to Otto Jasper, township clerk.

Named to the appeals board were Jasper, who will represent the township board, and Richard Prince, chairman of the township planning commission.

A third member is to be appointed at a later date, Jasper said. The board also established a charge of $50 for anyone requesting a special meeting of the appeals board.

In other areas, the park committee reported that $3,644 worth of playground equipment was expected to arrive today at the township park on the corner of John Beers and Scottsdale roads.

It was announced volunteers are being sought to install the equipment beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The board voted to name the park the Royalton Township Bicentennial park. Stevensville American Legion post 568 is to donate a 25-foot flagpole and flag, valued at $404, to the park, Jasper said.

It was announced that the park committee will hold its meetings on the first Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall.

Coloma Schools Selling Classroom

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night approved selling the district's former portable classroom to a community senior citizen organization for $2,300.

Board members accepted an offer from Berrien County Senior Citizens, Inc., to purchase the building located east of the Coloma high school. The organization plans to move the classroom to the Coloma city parking lot, off Logan street.

Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall confirmed the city has leased the site in the parking lot to the organization for two years, at a cost of $1 per year, with the option of one two-year renewal.

Randall said the structure will face the city's blacktopped entrance to the parking lot.

In other action, the board approved naming the firm of Reed, Roberts Associates, Inc., of Birmingham, Mich., to represent the school district in areas concerning unemployment claims for a yearly cost of $588.

Myron Spaulding, 4734 Midway Bluff drive, Benton Harbor, told board members he felt a lack of information was coming from the school board. Board members assured him they were doing everything they could to give out all information about the school district operations.

Boy, 14, To Face Court In Shooting

Berrien sheriff's officers reported a young Lincoln township man was shot in the foot Monday, and a 14-year-old boy was to be petitioned to juvenile court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Edward Lee Young, 21, of 385 PGreen Acre drive, was treated for a minor bullet wound and released from St. Joseph Memorial hospital. Officers said the shooting occurred at 3558 Green Acre about 2:30 p.m. A .22 caliber pistol was seized. The boy was released to custody of his mother, pending petitioning to juvenile court.

Police Theorize On Rail Mishap

WATERVLIET — A defect in a braking system may have been the cause of the 10-car derailment of a Chesapeake & Ohio freight train here Friday afternoon, according to Watervliet police.

The braking system defect may have prevented the wheels on one of the rail cars from turning on the Red Arrow crossing curve, thus starting the derailment, police said.

In the resulting derailment, 10 rail carriers, each carrying 12 new 1976 Buicks, went off the tracks, with six of the rail cars tipping over, causing varying damage to their cargo, 72 autos.

There were no injuries in the 1:08 p.m. accident at the city's busiest intersection.

Rail and General Motors officials have yet to make public an estimate of damage to the cars and railroad company equipment.

The Watervliet police theory on the cause of the derailment came after a Chesapeake spokesman yesterday said his company "categorically denies" that it was bad track that caused the derailment of the 10 cars in the 115-car, west-bound freight.

The denial was from Milton B. Dolinger, assistant vice president for public relations at the firm's Cleveland office. He added that the cause of the accident has not been determined and won't be until an extensive investigation is completed.

Earlier, former Watervliet Mayor Robert Flaherty and Frank Rogel, owner of an auto dealership in Watervliet, said they previously have seen cars in passing trains rise up and down, indicating loose trucks.

Dolinger said ground in the Watervliet area has a soft underground and cars of passing trains may bounce, but that such a condition would not be responsible for the derailment.

7-12 GRADERS Saugatuck To Get Glenn's Students

GLENN — Property owners in the Glenn primary school district last night voted to continue to send their junior and senior high school age children to the Saugatuck secondary school system.

The Fennville, Saugatuck and South Haven districts had expressed an interest in accepting the Glenn children in grades seven through 12 on a tuition basis.

The vote to continue to send the children to Saugatuck passed 84-0. Glenn is located between South Haven and Saugatuck.

School board President Frank Conklin noted that individual parents who wish to send their children to either Fennville or South Haven are free under state department of education policy to do so at the Glenn district's expense. However, the Glenn system will provide transportation only to Saugatuck.

Last year the Glenn system sent 51 children to Saugatuck and it appears 63 boys and girls will be eligible in the fall. A consensus of parents at the meeting was that most would continue to send their children to Saugatuck.

Both Fennville and South Haven had sought the Glenn children in response to declining enrollments within their own districts.

The tuition rate is established by the state. Last year the tuition to attend Saugatuck was $345 per student while it would have been between $384 and $545 to go to Fennville and between $15 and $138 to South Haven.

Parents said they weren't concerned about the cost and were satisfied with the quality of education at Saugatuck.

In other matters at the district's annual meeting, a $99,025 budget for the 1976-77 school year was approved. Revenue is expected to total $62,134.

Treasurer Herman Ballou reported the district ended the past year with an $18,352 surplus despite a deficit in the operating budget. Expenses in 1975-76 were $60,064 while receipts totaled $59,535.

The board reported that next year children in grades kindergarten through third would be in one room while grades four through six will be in the other. Elementary enrollment is expected to be 47.

The local millage, approved for a two-year period in 1975, will remain at 23.08 mills and is expected to generate $54,684 in revenue.

Sam Hoffman was elected to a three-year term as treasurer to succeed Ballou who did not seek re-election after serving six years. Hoffman outpolled Mrs. Connie Knight 31-16.

House Speeds Work On Budget Bills

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House began rare morning sessions today in an effort to pass as many budget bills as possible before breaking for the summer at the end of the month.

The bulk of the budget remains to be done, and House leaders hope to have most budget bills in joint House-Senate conference committees by the end of the week so that spending differences between House and Senate can be worked out.

While the state Senate is not up for re-election the House is, and many members face primary opponents in August, which is why leaders are anxious to break by July to give members a solid month to campaign.

In action Monday, controversy over whether the Judicial Tenure Commission breaches confidentiality in its investigations of black judges has led to creation of a special House committee.

The committee will meet with the Michigan Supreme Court to discuss the constitutional amendment that created the nine-member commission in 1967 and to discuss whether the legislation requires the commission to provide confidentiality to those it investigates.

The House voted 38-38 to create the committee.

"Every time the commission violates its proceedings it's been on a black judge," Rep. George Cushingberry Jr., D-Detroit, charged. "Institutional racism is one of the biggest problems in American society." Cushingberry cited news leaks about the commission's investigation of Detroit Recorder's Court Judge James Del Rio, but added "This is not simply Jimmy Del Rio's resolution." He said a 1973 investigation of Detroit Recorder's Court Judge George Crockett also was leaked before it was complete.

Cushingberry said he is not opposed to investigations of judges but said they should remain confidential until a judgment is reached. The tenure commission normally recommends findings to the Supreme Court which then makes a ruling. No recommendations have been made in the Del Rio investigation, Cushingberry said.

The resolution the House adopted was a sharply watered down version of the original, which called for a full-fledged investigation by a House committee.

In other action Monday, the House approved 85-2 and sent to the governor legislation to help corporations guard against stock takeovers.

The bill places restrictions on offers to acquire the stock of Michigan companies if the transaction would result in the acquisition of more than five per cent of the outstanding shares in a particular class of securities.

New State Campaign Finance Bill Begins Legislative Trek

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation limiting the amount of money individuals can give to state political campaigns is about to begin the long trek through the legislature.

The bill's sponsor, state Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Deerborn, said the legislation is a reworked version of provisions contained in a 1975 political ethics law that was overturned by the state Supreme Court.

McCollough said the new version, which was introduced Monday, meets guidelines set by state and U.S. Supreme Courts and spelled out in federal election law.

To conform with the recent state Supreme Court ruling, it contains no limits on how much a candidate can spend, the lawmaker said.

Another provision of the overturned law, allowing for public funding of gubernatorial campaigns, already has been redrafted and introduced in the House.

McCollough predicted his bill will be out of the Senate Committee on Municipalities and Elections and before the Senate by the end of the month and will be passed by the legislature this year.

He said public sentiment for stronger campaign legislation is strong. "It is likely if we do not enact legislation we will see petition drives in the fall," he said.

McCollough's bill requires that contributions of $50 or more be recorded and that contributions above $100 be reported, identifying the contributor by name and address.

Contributions of $200 or more would have to be reported, along with the name, address, occupation, business and place of employment of the contributor.

Campaign organizations would not be able to spend more than $50 in petty cash. Larger amounts would have to be spent by check so the expenditure could be recorded.

Galien Settles Grievance With Lady Custodian

GALIEN — The Galien school board last night following an executive session agreed to settle a grievance filed by Linda Crowthers.

Son Of Galien Pair Gets Post

GALIEN — Robert F. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert White of Galien, has been named police chief in Montgometry, Ill.

Montgomery is a community of about 3,400 people near Aurora, Ill.

Prior to his appointment as police chief, White had been a part-time patrolman and investigator for the Sugar Grove, Ill., police department, and he headed the Waubesa Community college campus police.

He has received a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Michigan State university and he spent three years with the Dowagiac police department.

Mrs. Crowthers is a custodian. Tilmann said the grievance stemmed from a dispute over whether she was a nine-month or 12-month employee. Last summer she was not employed by the district.

In other areas, the board following another executive session approved offering 5.5 per cent pay hikes to Victor Wolford, director of maintenance, and his son, Dale, assistant director of maintenance. Salary for Victor Wolford was increased from $11,000 to $11,665 and Dale's from $9,000 to $9,495.

The board approved purchasing new elementary science textbooks. "Concepts in Science," at an estimated cost of $2,543.

The board adopted an athletic budget for 1976-77 of $10,192 featuring anticipated expenditures of $10,170.

The board also approved purchasing a used printer for the drafting department from Service Reproduction company, at a cost of $430.

Supt. Tilmann reported that Galien received another "very positive" report from the University of Michigan Accreditation program. He said the report said "Galien high school continues to be one of the finest small high schools in Southwestern Michigan." He said the report also indicated improvement could be made with more vocational offerings.

Galien Won't Buy Sewer Lagoon Site

GALIEN — The Galien village council last night turned down buying 41 acres of land on the edge of the village's northwest limits for a proposed sewer lagoon site. Robert James, village president, said the old Potter property site price had been raised $6,000 to $39,000 and the council felt it was too much.

James said he didn't know where the lagoons would be constructed now. "We're (the council) right back where we started from now," he said. In the only other action, the board signed a contract with Wightman & Associates, St. Joseph engineers, in continue with the second-phase (planning) in preparation of the sewer project which will include portions of Galien township and Weesaw township.

Gasoline Spill Loss Set At 150 Gallons

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NILES — A spokesman for Shell Oil company said yesterday that an estimated 150 gallons of gasoline spilled from a pipeline at the company's storage facilities south of here Sunday morning.

George Meany, Shell assistant public relations manager for the Midwest, said the leak was repaired in less than an hour after it was spotted shortly before 8 a.m. Sunday.

Meany said the cause of the leak in a pipeline leading to a storage tank was blamed on, "failure of a flange gasket and a pipeline hender." Pumping of gasoline into the tank through the pipeline was resumed soon after the repairs were completed, he added.

David Dennis, chief of the state department of natural resources' oil and hazardous materials section, said yesterday that his division would investigate the leak.

Niles township firemen reported that an unidentified motorist passing the storage facility, on South Third street, spotted gasoline spilling from the above ground pipeline.

The Shell facility is located in an area serving several oil companies and commonly known as "tank town." The site was the scene of a 4,000 to 5,000 gallon gasoline spill from a Mobil Oil company storage tank July 22, 1975.

River Valley Adopts New Spelling Plan

THREE OAKS — The River Valley school board last night voted to expand a spelling program now offered in grades three and four to students in grades two and five as well.

Called the Continuous Progressive Spelling program, it allows students to advance at their own speed, according to Peter Petros, New Troy principal.

He said the program does not show students down by having them study words they already know how to spell.

The board also agreed to switch to a different method of teaching penmanship in grades one through three next year. The new program, called the Zaner-Blosser handwriting program, was requested by 30 of the 38 teachers who taught handwriting this year, Petros said. The method is supposed to be easier to learn than the one previously used, known as the Palmer method.

The board voted to purchase extra copies of the new penmanship text for distribution to teachers in grades four, five and six. The board also approved a second-year Spanish text book and a revised German textbook for the foreign language department in the high school.

In other areas, the board approved a request from the Three Oaks fire department to use the high school grounds for the department's annual July 4 fireworks display.

The board scheduled a special meeting for Monday, June 21, at 8 p.m.

The annual reorganization meeting was scheduled for July 6. That meeting will replace the regular meeting which would have been held July 12.

Lawyers Tackle Criminal Code

DETROIT — A 28-member committee formed by the State Bar of Michigan will rewrite the state's criminal code in a second attempt to bring crime and punishment up to date. The committee hopes to have the revision ready to submit to the legislature by September 1977. A revised criminal code written by the State Bar in 1967 failed to get legislative approval. "Our present code is at times as unjust as it is ineffective," said Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Hurace W. Gilmore, who is heading the committee of attorneys, judges, and representatives of law enforcement and corrections agencies. Gilmore said the committee will not only streamline the code, eliminate outdated laws and modernize its language, but also will try to solve the problem of widely different sentences for similar offenses.

He'll Fly In Russia

HOWELL, Mich. (AP) — Henry Haigh thinks he has built the best aerobatic airplane in the world. Next month he's going to Russia to try to prove it. Haigh, a Howell industrialist, is hoping his Super Pitts Special biplane, coupled with his aerobatic flying skills can make him the World Champion Aerobatic pilot. At the very least he wants to be a major aid in a U.S. capture of the World Aerobatic Team Championship. The World Aerobatic Championship in Kiev July 23 to Aug. 5 is considered the Olympic games of aviation by flying experts. An American team of five men and one woman will compete against teams from Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, France, England, East and West Germany, South Africa, Australia and perhaps Canada.

For High-Risk Drivers

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich. (AP) — The state insurance commissioner has called for a new state auto insurance program to provide better service to high-risk drivers. Commissioner Thomas Jones Monday endorsed the establishment of a state "reinsurance facility" to take the place of the current "assigned risk" plan in auto insurance. The "assigned risk" designation means a high-risk driver who cannot obtain insurance in normal ways must obtain it from a special high-premium pool operated by the insurance companies. Under the "reinsurance" concept, the state would reinsurance insurance companies who write policies for such high-risk motorists. "If the public is required to buy automobile insurance, then the insurance industry must be required to sell it in a truly competitive fashion," Jones told a meeting of the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies here.

A $60 Million Rainfall

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A good rain would be worth about $60 million to Saginaw-area bean growers, says Norman J. Brown, Saginaw County's extension director. Brown, eyeing the second week of rainless skies, said Monday this is the last week beans can be planted and be guaranteed of reaching maturity. The last rain this major agricultural area had was Memorial Day. "What we need is another holiday. Then we get rain," Brown said. Growers have stopped planting because the soil is too dry. Beans need about 90 days to mature, Brown said, because the odds of a frost increase in September and it might not be worth the gamble to delay planting much later than this week.

New Bank Request

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The vice chairman of the Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit and others are asking the state Financial Institutions Bureau for permission to open a Manufacturers Bank of St. Clair Shores. The bank would be capitalized at $1.5 million. Incorporators are Kenneth Aird of Livonia, vice chairman of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit; Louis G. Allen of Birmingham; Jay P. Bunker of Livonia; Thomas H. Dooley of Orchard Lake; Paul L. Hussey of Northville, and Paul H. Martzowka of Bloomfield Hills.

In A Hail Of Gunfire

DETROIT (AP) — Three off-duty Detroit police officers shot and killed a man in a hail of bullets early Monday outside an east side bar. Police said the slaying of Arthur Gray, 36, followed an argument earlier in the evening between Gray and one of the police officers. Officers said Gray fired three blasts from his shotgun before he was felled. A companion, identified as Ernest Graham, 30, fired two shots before fleeing, police said. Graham was arrested later and charged with assault with intent to commit murder. The police officers were not struck by the gunfire. Review boards were assigned for all three officers in the incident, police said.

Seven Public Hearings

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A special panel studying changes in the property tax will hold seven public hearings this summer. The governor's office said Monday the hearings will give taxpayers a chance to respond to an interim report due next month of the governor's Advisory Task Force on Property Tax Revision. The interim report will present alternatives to the present property tax system, the governor's office said. The panel is studying various proposals and reviewing the use of the property tax to finance public education. None of the hearings is in southwestern Michigan.

Dial-A-Ride No. 28

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Eaton Rapids, a community south of Lansing, on Monday became the 28th Michigan city to operate Dial-A-Ride bus service, the state Highway and Transportation Department announced. The Eaton Rapids system will run for one year as a $48,028 state-funded demonstration project. After a year, city officials must scrap the system or provide a share of operating costs. Michigan plans to launch 10 Dial-A-Ride systems in 1976. Michigan leads the nation in the number of small or rural Dial-A-Ride systems, the highway department said. Michigan Dial-A-Rides currently carry a total of two million passengers a year in cities under 50,000 population, officials said.

Going Way, Way Back

FARMINGTON, Mich. (AP) — One Michigan delegate to the Republican national convention in Kansas City will have a unique link to the founding of the country. Two hundred years before Mary Lou Barth of Farmington helps select a presidential candidate, an ancestor was signing the Declaration of Independence. But despite her ties with the birth of the republic, Mrs. Barth says she is not conscious of an unusual heritage or tradition in political matters. "It is just part of my history," she said. "In 1976 I've thought about it more, and my daughter has looked into it. But it's just been a matter of fact with our family."

Charles Carroll of Maryland was a great-great-great-grandfather of Mrs. Barth, whose maiden name was Carroll. A lawyer, he outlived all other signers of the declaration.

Body Found In Trunk

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Eaton County sheriff's authorities are investigating the shotgun death of a former state police director's son whose body was found Saturday stuffed in the trunk of his car. Officials said a sheriff's deputy on routine patrol spotted blood on the bumper of a Cadillac, which was parked on Old Lansing Road in Delta Township. The deputy pried open the trunk and discovered the body of David Childs, 37, of Lansing. Childs was the son of Joseph Childs, who served as director of the Michigan State Police in the early 1960s. An autopsy Sunday revealed that Childs died of a shotgun blast to the chest. Investigation has disclosed that Childs, who worked as a Lansing fireman, was last seen alive about 2:15 a.m. Saturday, sheriff's officials said.

A Female Houdini

DETROIT (AP) — A 29-year-old woman's escape record is almost as impressive as her arrest record. Linda Flowers broke out of the Detroit House of Corrections this week for the ninth time and police say she has escaped seven other times from suburban police stations. She has 51 arrests, for shoplifting, armed robbery, prostitution and making a police officer. She has bragged to friends that her number of escapes actually totals 29 and police say that may very well be accurate. Police say she has used 13 aliases, including Heavely Parker, Gwendolyn Hawkins and Sarah Youngblood. Southfield police caught her in May 1971 trying to wheel a safe out the back door of the Singer Co. in the Northland Shopping Center. She is serving two to four years for larceny.

Conflict Of Interest

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Councilmen, mayors and county commissioners would be in conflict of interest if they held decision-making posts on economic development corporations, the attorney general has ruled. In his ruling Friday, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said the conflict would occur for these officials if they served on the board of directors or on a project citizens' district council of such a corporation. Kelley noted non-profit economic development corporations are public agencies organized for the public purpose of economic development, and controlled by the municipality.

Good, Bad News From Coupon War

DETROIT (AP) — Supermarket officials say last week's coupon war helped ring up the biggest week ever in Michigan grocery stores, but food merchants may have lost money on the deal. Sales figures are secret, but Kroger Co. said it was the biggest sales week ever in its Michigan marketing area. The war started when Farmer Jack boosted the face value of a coupon by 50 per cent. Others followed and Kroger wound up tripling the face value of coupons. Manufacturers will reimburse merchants only for a coupon's face value plus a small handling charge. Any loss is absorbed by food chains, meaning the corporations probably lost money on the deal. Even so, some officials say they are not unhappy. "We noticed a lot of new faces in our markets and our customer count was way up," said a spokesman for Farmer Jack. The coupon war was started in an effort to attract new customers. Store officials said a stabilizing population was responsible for a lack of growth. Except for some minor skirmishes, the war — which spread across Michigan's Lower Peninsula — came to an end Sunday.

Key Vote On Canoes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A key Senate vote is slated this week on an attempt to enable the state to cut down the number of canoes used on some of Michigan's crowded northern rivers. The move is an attempt to toughen up a bill which provides for the licensing of canoe rental operations and permits the state to block new facilities in overburdened rivers. The bill as now written does not allow the state to reduce the number of canoes currently in use. The amendment would permit the Department of Natural Resources to protect certain rivers from overuse and environmental damage. It would authorize the DNR to draft rules preventing overcrowded conditions.

Slow, Rational Approach

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — A show of force by uniformed police when hostages are being held can endanger innocent lives, FBI instructors told a seminar of Michigan police chiefs Monday. A slow and rational analysis of a hostage situation will pay off with less bloodshed on both sides, FBI agents Pat Mullany and Howard Telen told members of the Michigan Association of Police Chiefs. About 175 of the 800-member association are attending a three-day convention at Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel. Members will hold business sessions and elect officers today.

Ironworkers End Walkout

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Some 300 members of an Upper Peninsula ironworkers local returned to work Monday, ending a 3½-week walkout. A spokesman for Local 783 said his membership ratified a new two-year contract over the weekend with the Associated General Contractors of Michigan. In a related development, Upper Peninsula plumbers and pipefitters said they reached a new contract settlement with the U.P.'s Mechanical Contractors Association. A spokesman for Local 414 said the new two-year pact sent plumbers back to work today for the first time since June 1.

Wildcatters Win One Round

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge James Harvey refused Monday to order an end to a wildcat Teamsters strike at three Flint auto-hauling firms. The judge ruled the weeklong strike by members of Teamsters Local 332 involved a dispute with the international union, not with the companies. Therefore, the companies cannot obtain a restraining order, he said. Seeking the back-to-work order were F.J. Boutell Co., Inc.; Automobile Carriers, Inc.; and Complete Auto Transit, Inc. Some 500 drivers walked off their jobs last Tuesday, charging a contract between the international Teamsters union and the auto transport firms does not meet the needs of local members.

Drinking Age Viewpoint

DETROIT (AP) — An official of the Michigan Licensed Beverage Association says efforts to raise the legal drinking age in the state are misguided. Eddie Shephard, executive director of the MLBA, denied that liquor sellers only have profit-making in mind when they oppose recently introduced legislation to raise the drinking age from 18 to 19 or 20. Supporters of the legislation, introduced by Rep. Melvin DeStigter, R-Ann Arbor, say they have the backing of educators and law enforcement agencies. Shephard says the bill's backers are condemning an entire group because of the discipline problems of a few. "Ever since the legalization of drinking (for 18- to 21-year-olds) there has been less trouble with them than with older people," he said.

Watervliet Faces School Fund Cuts Or New Vote

WATERVLIET — Watervliet school board will probably have to cut some programs or resubmit to voters in August a 1.15 mill property tax defeated at the polls yesterday, according to Supt. Samuel Gravitt.

The tax proposal for one year was defeated 272 to 294 in the annual school elections. His comments came after a regular school board meeting where the vote results had been announced.

Gravitt said it would have raised about $35,000 locally and brought in another $35,000 in state aid towards the school's tentative, 1978-79 budget of $2,063,744.

Gravitt said the board will have to find some more operating funds to offset rising costs or cut some programs back.

In action at the school board meeting last night, two retiring school employees were commended for their service to the school in resolutions adopted by the board.

Commended were Rachel Rogers, an elementary teacher who has spent 33 of her 34 years in education at Watervliet, and Ed Youdell who has been employed as a bus driver and

Township Board Approves $500 For The Elderly

WATERVLIET — A $500 donation request from the North Berrien county senior citizens' organization was approved by the Watervliet township board last night when the board voted to join the project.

Supervisor Lyle Woodworth reported program officials are seeking similar amounts from Bainbridge, Hagar and Coloma townships, and Coloma and Watervliet cities to make the senior citizens project eligible for federal funds.

The board plans to take the donation from federal revenue sharing funds and trustees urged local senior citizens to take advantage of program daily luncheons involving nutritious meals for a nominal fee.

Currently the meals are given at the Coloma American Legion hall at night, but plans call for setting up a new center in a portable classroom purchased from the Coloma schools.

In other business, the board agreed to start billing some 12 to 15 homeowners for sewer hookups retroactive to March 1, 1976.

The charge will be a $1,950 tap fee and another $50 for a permit. If the owners don't pay the fees, they will be added to their tax bills.

Woodworth said the final date for hookups was in 1974 and the township has taken some homeowners to court for the fees but the court process is a lengthy and expensive one.

Woodworth also reported that township Atty. Ronald Poselli is working with Watervliet city Atty. F.A. (Mike) Jones in defending the two governments against a $134,000 lawsuit filed by STAT ambulance service.

The suit seeks damage for an alleged breach of contract by both governments. It contends that the governments, through a joint ambulance board, had contracted for ambulance service through June, 1978, but ordered the ambulance firm to stop the service effective Oct. 31, 1976.

The board tabled for further study, the purchasing of safety monitoring equipment that would detect poisonous gases in the sewer lift station and manholes.

Plans for a used car lot on the Eddie Baier property on North M-140 were announced at the meeting by the zoning board of appeals.

Joe Nilles wants to take the former fruit stand and establish a car lot but the board voted to withhold approval of the lot until a sewer hookup is made.

Costly Cleanup

DETROIT (AP) — Pollution control officials say the air people breathe in the Detroit area these days is cleaner than it has been in recent years. But that accomplishment has carried a sizeable price tag and will continue to do so as efforts continue.

Small Shops Revitalize Town's Run-Down Section

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer

ROCKFORD, Mich. (AP) — Imagination turned a run-down area of this small Western Michigan town into a shopping area with enough allure that its daily visitors often outnumber Rockford's residents.

The 34 small shops and restaurants of Squires Street Square are now pumping at least $500,000 in the town's economy each year.

And, what Rockford has accomplished could be done almost anywhere.

"Almost any town with old buildings could do this. It just takes a lot of planning," said Dorothy Anglin, a candle shop owner who heads the Square's merchants' association.

The Square's theme is historic. Buildings look much as they did 75 or 100 years ago. From the outside, "There hasn't been that much change except maybe for a fresh coat of paint," Mrs. Anglin noted.

Inside, the emphasis is upon handicrafts, antiques and food. The shops once held a variety of businesses, including a livery stable, barn, a feed mill, a railroad caboose, and even a coffin maker.

Many of the proprietors like Mrs. Anglin converted a hobby into an occupation. She was staffing coordinator at a Grand Rapids hospital until about three years ago.

A visit to one of the Square's first businesses spurred her decision to open a candle shop. "I'd been making candles as a hobby for a good many years," she said.

The area's pace is leisurely. Most shops are open only six hours daily.

John Reed, secretary-treasurer for the local Chamber of Commerce, described the Square's business as "mostly Mom and Pop operations" but estimated they still gross at least $200,000 annually.

Reed, who owns a gift shop outside the Square area, said eight new businesses have opened in the past six months. Over half of them are run by non-residents, he said.

The Square started in 1970 when two Rockford brothers, Mike and Tim Farmer, fixed up the burned out and condemned Dykstra feed elevator. As a hobby, the Farmers and their wives started selling homemade doughnuts and cider squeezed from a century-old press.

The Farmers bought other property nearby until they owned eight parcels. Today, Mike Farmer is landlord for many of the Square's shops.

But, he contends: "We have sustained heavy losses from our personal funds because it was hard to get help from a bank." No government funds were used.

Still, the foundry supply firm president said, "Squire Street can stand on its own now." He noted some shop owners are starting to buy their stores from him.

Dave Hutchins, a Rockford banker and president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the Square is "going through growing pains" but "they bring in an awful lot of traffic."

Reed claimed the Square averages 3,000 visitors daily from May through October. Rockford's population is only about 2,800, he said.

Ford Strategists Out To Prevent Delegate Wobble

By Associated Press

President Ford's campaign strategists, apparently seeking to prevent any defection of their candidate's delegates to Ronald Reagan's camp, have named nine regional delegate chairmen to keep Ford's delegates in line. "We think it is important to maintain good communications with them and this will help us do that," said Rogers C.B. Morton, President Ford's campaign manager, in announcing the appointment of the chairmen.

Morton, however, acknowledged that the main purpose of the chairmen was "to keep the current ones (delegates) in line."

A spokesman for Reagan, meanwhile, said the former California governor would go to Washington state on Friday to seek the 38 delegates to be chosen Saturday.

Reagan supporters in Washington said they were surprised to learn he would campaign there. State Republican Chairman Ross Davis, a backer of Ford, said he had "no idea" whether Ford would go to the state because Reagan planned to be there.

Reagan is to arrive in Washington on Friday from Des Moines, where 38 Iowa delegates will be selected over the weekend, and leave early Saturday for Los Angeles.

Meanwhile, Jimmy Carter, who says he has more than the 1,505 delegates needed to nominate him, returned to his home in Plains, Ga., after trips to Dallas and New York City.

Carter appeared at a fund-raising affair in Dallas after appearing at the Democratic state convention in New York where he received backing from Arizona Rep. Morris Udall.

Udall said he would not actively pursue more delegates and would release any delegate who asked to vote for Carter.

Carter also picked up the support of two other Democrats who had sought the party's presidential nomination.

Sen. Frank Church dropped his presidential candidacy in Carter's favor, and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris urged his delegates to back Carter.

In Los Angeles, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., tenaciously clinging to his lone challenge to Carter, said Monday that his campaign was "just getting warmed up."

"I don't think we're ready to

fold the tent and close the door to the convention." Brown told an airport news conference after returning from the state convention in New York City. "We're just getting warmed up."

Morton said the Missouri state convention last Saturday, in which Ford got only one of the 19 at-large delegates, was a setback but not an indication of momentum turning in Reagan's favor.

"I'm perfectly willing to recognize it's going to be close," he said. But he said he was still confident that Ford would get the nomination on the first ballot at the GOP convention starting in Kansas City on Aug. 16.

Morton said Ford needs to pick up only about 150 more delegate votes to win the nomination and he feels sure the President will get these from among the currently uncommitted and yet-to-be named delegates in state conventions.

An Associated Press tally Monday showed Ford with 983 committed delegates, 82 votes ahead of Reagan's 881 votes. There are 255 delegates yet to be selected, with 159 uncommitted. A total of 1,150 are needed to nominate.

Morton said he agreed with the accuracy of The Associated Press delegate poll and said, "I feel confident we are going to be able to maintain that lead."

He said Ford is expected to do well in Minnesota, Connecticut and Delaware conventions and has a 50-50 chance in Iowa and North Dakota. But he conceded Ford trails in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Montana and Washington.

"You put all of that together with what we've got and we're in pretty good shape," Morton said.

In other Republican action Monday, Southern GOP state chairmen asked Ford and Reagan to avoid credentials fights at the national convention. They also asked them to consider choosing a running-mate who would have appeal in the South.

Clark Reed, Mississippi chairman, said the messages were sent after a weekend meeting of the 13-member Association of Southern Republican Chairmen. Contents of the messages were not available. Spokesmen for Reagan and Ford had no immediate comment.

Officials said the meeting focused on finding a strategy to use in the South against Carter and some felt the best strategy would be to try to brand him a liberal.

Carter told an airport news conference in Dallas Monday night that the Democratic party got through the primary contests "unscathed, there are no personal or political wounds left." But he noted it would be a "fatal mistake" to be overconfident about the November election.

Carter also said he had several hundred thousand dollars in debts but "I think I will wind up the campaign year without being in debt."

Harris, whose campaign has been inactive for several months, released all 18 of his delegates from four states and urged them to support Carter.

Church, who entered the primaries late but collected 77 delegates according to an Associated Press count, said his delegates were "free agents" and urged them to back Carter, who has 1,328 committed delegates, according to The AP count.

Udall did not officially release his delegates — 325 by The AP tally — but Carter said, "I understand his position." Carter said that by remaining a candidate, Udall continues to enjoy floor privileges at the Democratic convention and is still eligible for federal campaign matching funds.

Gov. Hugh Carey, New York City Mayor Abraham Beame, former Gov. Averell Harriman, former mayor Robert Wagner Jr. and other local leaders held a news conference calling upon other Democrats to support Carter. Only 33 delegates are legally committed to support Carter in New York.

Referring to the growing likelihood of a Carter first ballot nomination, Brown said in Los Angeles, "I have no illusions about the arithmetic, but I know in California that two million people asked me to go forward, and that's what I plan to do."

Asked if he would support Carter, Brown said, "Let's wait another 30 days; I'm not yet ready to endorse him."

Carter, while in New York, was asked if Brown might be on his list as a possible running-mate. "Gov. Brown has promised his people he'd serve out his term as governor. I'd hate to contribute to (his breaking that promise)," he said.

Carter said in Dallas that he will make a recommendation on his choice of running-mate to the convention.

New A-Weapons For NATO

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The United States may reduce its arsenal of 7,000 nuclear warheads in Western Europe by replacing old weapons with smaller and more accurate arms, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld has told America's European allies. "We have some weapons now that are big, dirty and inaccurate. We want to replace them with some that are clean, neat and accurate," said a U.S. spokesman who briefed reporters on the semiannual meeting Monday of the seven-nation Nuclear Planning Group of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The American official said the introduction of weapons that could be used with either conventional or nuclear warheads might make the use of nuclear weapons less likely.

USSR Ups Duty On Parcels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is sharply raising its customs duties on parcels sent in from abroad, prompting congressional charges that the Kremlin move may be aimed at restricting Western support of dissidents and Soviet Jews. The increased customs duties also raise the cost of gift parcels regularly sent by thousands of Ukrainians, Lithuanians and other emigres in the United States to relatives in the Soviet Union. The higher duties, set in take effect today, come in addition to tightened regulations and a 30 per cent tax imposed earlier this year on Soviet citizens receiving foreign currency.

Conferees Get Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign military aid legislation, already vetoed once by President Ford because of restrictions on spending, has been rewritten and approved by both houses of Congress. Conferees must now draft a compromise bill acceptable to Ford. Both the House and Senate versions include new restrictions on U.S. arms exports. The Senate passed a $6.7-billion version Monday 62 to 18. The House passed a $7-billion authorization June 2 by a 255 to 140 vote. The bills replace a 15-month authorization vetoed by President Ford in May because he said it imposed undue congressional interference with the president's constitutional responsibility to conduct foreign affairs.

Coffee A Cancer Danger?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A chemical used until last year in making decaffeinated coffee causes liver cancer in mice, according to the National Cancer Institute. In a report issued Sunday, the institute said the findings about TCX, or trichloroethylene, "serve as a warning of possible" cancer danger to humans. The agency also warned against using three possible substitutes for TCX — one of which the decaffeinated coffee makers switched to — until all safety testing has been completed. Coffee makers are now using methylene chloride to remove caffeine from coffee because that substance is an approved food additive, an FDA spokesman said, adding that there are no plans to stop the practice until its safety is called into question.

Underground Nuclear Plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of a nuclear power industry association says the industry will look into the feasibility of locating atomic reactors underground to help reduce the danger of serious accidents. Carl Walske, president of the Atomic Industrial Forum, said Sunday that the group hopes to find out within about a year whether such a step would be worth the extra costs involved. Proposals to study the possibility of keeping atomic reactors underground were aired amid the recent debate in California over a ballot proposition that would have banned virtually any further nuclear power plants in that state.

Bicentennial Breakfast

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — At Bunker Hill they reenact battles. New York entertains ships and shoots off fireworks. In Philadelphia, they line up to see the Liberty Bell. But in "Cereal City" they celebrate the Bicentennial by having breakfast. Some 10,000 people showed up for a free breakfast Saturday morning and were served at what Battle Creek touts as "the world's largest breakfast table." They feasted on doughnuts, milk, apple juice, yogurt and, yes, cereal from the city's big manufacturers — Kellogg, Post and Ralston. Some 200 volunteers served the meal while CB radio aficionados helped coordinate. The table is about four city blocks long, but officials of the event did not say how long it was in fact and did not provide any substantiation for the claim that it is the world's longest.

Tools Are Taken At Home Site

PAW PAW — State Police he reported that an estimated $975 worth of tools were reported taken yesterday from a home under construction at CR-653 and 38th avenue here.

Troopers said the owner, Max Mumford, route 3, Sharon drive, Paw Paw, discovered the items, which included several power saws, electric motors, and tool boxes, were gone about 8:30 a.m. when he went to the house.

Entry had been gained by prying open a window. A set of tracks, possibly made by a vehicle equipped with snow tires, was found at the scene, police said.

Damage Is $18,000

Benton township firemen said a stubborn early-morning fire today at the Edward Farmer residence, 420 Higman Park road, caused $18,000 in damage, but no one was hurt.

Firemen said the blaze burned out the kitchen and laundry room, where the fire was believed to have started. Cause of the fire was undetermined. Firemen reported they were called about 5:45 a.m. and it took some 90 minutes to quell the blaze that spread up walls in the two-story home and into the attic.

effective because of the possibility that it, too, could be forged or counterfeited.

County Is Challenged

I suggest that the only proper conclusion is that there was no "unwarranted and unfounded conduct" on the part of the Michigan Migrant Legal Assistance Project and that the adoption of the resolution in question by the Berrien County Board of commissioners was grossly ill-advised.

MORE PRIVATE EMPLOYMENT

Jobs First With Senate Candidate

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

U.S. Senate Candidate Deane Baker of Ann Arbor told a breakfast audience at St. Joseph Holiday Inn Monday that "creating jobs for our people must be the No. 1 priority for our government."

Baker said he favors the Ford administration's proposals to create more private employment through tax incentives for business and expansion of proven federal job programs.

Baker, one of four candidates for the Republican nomination for the Senate, was in St. Joseph to start another leg of an 800-mile campaign trip by bicycle through the state. He already had completed 700 miles when he departed from St. Joseph yesterday.

A University of Michigan regent, Baker, 51, attacked the Democratic Humphrey-Hawkins federal jobs bill as "grossly inflationary" and a "danger to the free enterprise system."

Baker said the Humphrey-Hawkins bill would attempt to reduce unemployment to three per cent by providing a program of federally-funded jobs and be requiring the president to start long range planning designed to create jobs.

"Temporary government jobs leave no permanent economic benefits," Baker charged. "Permanent employment is best created from private sources." Baker, of Ann Arbor, is president of a construction firm. He outlined several proposals for stimulation of the Michigan economy:

—Development of the Great Lakes as a fishery, as a recreational center and as a year-round shipping channel.

—Diversification of the Michigan economy to more scientific-orientated industry without lessening support for the auto industry.

Use of state-wide university system for research and development of Michigan industry and commerce.

Baker also spoke out against forced busing of schoolchildren for integration purposes. Last week at a press conference in Detroit, Baker called for a constitutional amendment to prohibit forced busing. He commented, "A constitutional amendment that, coupled with upgrading of our inner-city and suburban schools, will give the American people what they want — quality education for all of their children without an undue disruption of their families and government intrusion in their lives."

He said he is a strong advocate of an integrated society and does not find his stand on busing to be inconsistent with that goal.

Sparks Testifies
He Was At Murder
Scene; Didn't KillBy AL AREND
Staff Writer

ALLEGAN — Roger Dale Sparks testified at his murder trial yesterday that he was with a girl at the murder scene the night Deborah Knapp of South Haven was killed, but he can't remember ever slapping the girl.

Sparks, 19, 717 Lee street, South Haven, took the stand in Allegan circuit court here during the fifth day of his trial on charges of first degree murder and first degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly rape) in connection with the stabbing death of Miss Knapp, 18, last Dec. 23.

Miss Knapp's body was found with 55 stab wounds, according to earlier testimony, near 130th avenue in Allegan county's Saugatuck township.

Just prior to the presentation of his case yesterday, Defense Atty. Harry Beach of Plainwell, announced to the court that he was withdrawing his claim of a defense of insanity for Sparks.

Later, Prosecutor Fred R. Hunter III, said he was not surprised by the move. "I knew he (Atty. Beach) would do it (withdraw the insanity defense) when he found he couldn't get any expert witness to testify to the fact."

Sparks was the first to take the stand yesterday and the defense called only one other witness, Dr. Dennis Koson, Ann Arbor psychiatrist, and former director of the Forensics center there.

Following the testimony and cross examination of both, which was frequently delayed by lengthy recesses for what ended up being legal discussions by Beach and Hunter in Judge George Corsiglia's chambers and library, the defense rested its case at 5 p.m. Testimony, first began at 9:42 a.m.

The case is expected to reach the jury today, with prosecution rebuttal witnesses expected to take the stand at 9 a.m.

Throughout testimony yesterday, Sparks denied earlier testimony by police detectives that he told them he had killed Miss Knapp.

"I never told them (police) I killed anyone, at anytime," he testified.

Sparks said he has had frequent lapses of memory ever since he bumped his head on a rock while wrestling with a relative in his backyard in May of 1975. "I've had a headache now for one year," he said. "It's like a dull pain, sometimes severe." He said he went to the hospital about it, but was told by a nurse that he was alright.

Sparks testified that since his arrest, nearly six months ago, his memory of the events of that night gradually keep coming back to him.

Sparks testified he left his residence in South Haven the night of Dec. 23, around 9:30 p.m. and drove to the K-Mart in Benton Harbor by himself to buy his wife a Christmas present or put one on lay-away.

He said he reached the store just before it closed at 10 p.m., went in looked around and left. Upon leaving the store, he said he got lost in Benton Harbor for 15 to 20 minutes, before returning to US 31-33, and heading back to South Haven.

On the way back, Sparks testified he hit a Boxer dog with his car. He said he stopped the car, got a hunting knife out of the glove compartment, because his father once told him to beware of injured dogs "they may turn vicious" and walked to the dog. He said he saw the animal was not moving and he picked it up and dropped the dog in a ditch.

Sparks said he couldn't remember driving the rest of the way to South Haven, but did remember "going home" and telling his wife and relatives he had hit a dog. He said he took a bath and went to bed.

Sparks testified he remembered that before going home he pulled up next to a girl that was sitting alone in a car in the Foodtown store parking lot in South Haven the night of Dec. 22.

Sparks testified he thought the girl was having car trouble and he went up to her car. He said a song he liked was playing on her car radio. Sparks said he asked her if she had car trouble and she said no. He said he then asked if he could listen to the song, and she said okay and asked him into her car.

Sparks testified that he and the girl talked awhile, "just friendly talk" about mutual friends "we might have, since we were both from South Haven," he testified. Sparks said they left in her car eventually heading north for a ride.

She said her name was "Sally," he testified.

Sparks said he and the girl drove past Glen and he remembers her driving north on Lake Shore drive, "because she was going quite fast" and the road was slippery from snow. He said he remembered the girl pulling into a "driveway somewhere."

Sparks, then said the girl became sexually aggressive towards him, but he refused her advances and got out of the auto.

He said she had already removed her shirt, bra, and panties and followed him out of the car. Sparks said she was calling him names at the time.

Sparks testified the girl began striking and slapping him with her fists and hands. He said he shoved her away several times and finally into a ditch.

"She screamed and I went to see if she was alright," he testified. He said she then grabbed his leg and he finally relented to her sexual advances.

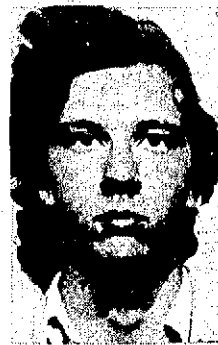

He testified that when they were through he started to walk away, but stumbled and that was when his knife fell out of his jacket pocket. He testified she came up to him again and wanted him to get back in the car "for more sex."

He said she grabbed his arm and wouldn't let go, so he hit her arm with the blunt (handle) end of the knife and shoved her down in a ditch.

Sparks testified, "I then cut her panties off and told her to stick her butt in the snow and cool off."

He said he then drove a short ways away, but came back and saw she had blood on her arm.

At that point, Sparks testified he saw headlights coming from the other direction, he drove off

MARCELLUS — Cass county recorded its first drowning victim of the year last night when a 21-year-old Paw Paw man drowned while swimming in Finch lake about four miles west of here.

Cass sheriff's deputies said divers recovered the body of William J. DePierre, of route 1, 38th avenue, Paw Paw, from the lake about 7:15 p.m. last night.

Officers said witnesses told them DePierre had gone swimming in the lake shortly after eating dinner. When the group he was with noticed he was missing, they summoned deputies.

DePierre's body was found in water about 20 feet deep, officers said.

Deputies said DePierre had been visiting a cousin who owns a cabin on the lake in Cass county's Vulpia township.

Officers were continuing their investigation into the death today.

WILLIAM J. DEPIERRE
Drowning victimGobles Board Trip
Had $3,306 Tag

GOBLES — The controversial April trip to San Francisco by six school board members and their spouses and Supt. Guy Leverssee cost taxpayers $3,306, Leverssee revealed at the Gobles school board meeting last night.

The board in May, reacting to public criticism over costs of the four-day trip to the national school board convention, had promised to reveal total costs at last night's meeting.

Leverssee said in a telephone conversation with this newspaper this morning that all non-board members will repay their costs of the trip to the district.

He said three non-board members who made the trip have already repaid the school district.

The superintendent added that non-board members who made national convention trips in past years always repaid the district and that he has receipts to prove it.

News accounts of the convention trip and the expenses have been "blown out of proportion," he said. Leverssee last night listed expenses per person as $75 for convention registration; $175 for a roundtrip air ticket; and $20 for food.

In another area, school board members and parents are scheduled to meet next Monday night with high school history and government teacher Byrl Bowman over a dispute involving Bowman's student grading system.

Several parents among the 55 people attending last night's meeting said that of the 91 students Bowman had under him this year, 35 received failing grades.

In addition, a parent claimed, of the 58 seniors who participated in commencement exercises this year, three received unsigned diplomas because they had failed in one of Bowman's classes.

Leverssee said he has no data to confirm that 35 of Bowman's 91 students this year failed, but said three seniors received unsigned diplomas because of deficiencies in required work.

Also last night, the board voted to renew its membership with the Barrien county intermediate school's film library at a cost of $1.55 per student.

Board members were also paid their yearly stipend last night for service on the board. The board secretary received $200, the treasurer $150 and all others $100 each.

The superintendent said school district voters about five years ago approved payment of the stipends to board members for service.

School Tax Rate
Cut At Bridgman

BRIDGMAN — The Bridgman school board last night lowered its school property tax rate for 1976 from 12.391 mills to 11.626 mills, the lowest rate of any school district in the state.

The reduction was accomplished by reducing the district's debt retirement rate from 4.015 mills to 3.250 mills. The district levies 8.376 mills allocated by the county, but no additional operating millage of its own.

It was announced that the district's new state equalized valuation is a whopping $232,501,139, up over $75 million compared to 1975. Based on the new SEV, each mill will raise approximately $252,500 or nearly $2.1 million in local operating revenue. The district's tentative operating budget for 1976-77 is $2,338,612.

The reason for the huge SEV is that the multi-million dollar Cook nuclear plant is located within the school district.

In other areas, the board adopted a different math series for both the elementary and secondary levels which will eliminate the concept of "new" math which has been taught here for the past several years.

The board approved hiking its hot lunch prices next year by two cents a day across the board. K-8 students will now pay 40 cents a day, 9th through 12th graders 45 cents a day, and teachers 57 cents a day.

Eau Claire Names
New School Chief

EAU CLAIRE — A 49-year-old Mount Sinai, N.Y., educator was named as the new Eau Claire schools superintendent by the school board last night.

Franklin Fisher, a school board member and interim superintendent, said Dr. William Horie will assume his new duties as of July 1. Fisher said the board has signed a one-year contract to pay Horie a salary of $23,750.

Horie will replace Dr. William F. Schaefer III, who resigned the superintendent's post May 17 to accept a similar position with the Lake Zurich, Ill., community schools system. Fisher has been acting as interim school chief since Schaefer left the post last month.

Fisher said Horie was selected from a field of 129 applicants. He said the field was narrowed to 11 before the new superintendent was selected.

Horie is currently assistant superintendent for business at the Roosevelt, N.Y., public schools, a community near his home of Mount Sinai. He was also an assistant superintendent with the Dearborn Heights, Mich. school system before moving to New York state.

In other areas, the board formally accepted the resignation of Paul Borgan, high school varsity football coach. It was previously announced that Borgan has accepted the head football coaching job at Benton Harbor.

Purchase of 30 high school physical science books, at a cost of $180, was approved by the board.

PSC Will Oppose
I&M Rate Request

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Public Service Commission will oppose a move by an Indiana power company that could mean a 70 per cent rate hike for some 25,000 southwest Michigan electric customers.

The commission said Monday it would intervene before the Federal Power Commission on a request by the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.

Michigan Power, which gets most of its electricity from Indiana & Michigan, would be forced to seek a rate hike that probably would mean an average 70 per cent rate increase to Michigan Power's customers, the commission said.

The company serves customers in rural Cass, Van Buren, Kalamazoo and St. Joseph counties.

Indiana & Michigan sought the wholesale power rate increase May 28, and asked it take effect this month. The FPC may allow the higher charges to take effect on a temporary basis while it decides whether they should be permanent.

Even so, customers of Michigan Power, who now pay the lowest electric rates in the state, would not begin paying higher rates for many months, a PSC spokesman said. The request before the FPC must be settled first, and new rates for Michigan Power customers approved by the PSC. Rates for the sale of power between utilities are set by the FPC, while rates for the sale of power to companies and individuals are set by state power commissions like the PSC.

Indiana & Michigan also asked permission to charge more for wholesale power it sells to Fruitbelt Rural Electric Cooperative and to the cities of South Haven, Sturgis and Niles. Rates these would pay would increase by varying amounts.

Teen Slain In Park

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit police said today they are questioning three individuals in the Monday night shooting death of 13-year-old Gregory Witowski. The youth was killed at a park on the city's northeast side, police said, when a gang of about 20 other youths tried to steal his bicycle. Witowski was shot once in the head about 11 p.m. Lt. Elmer Brewer said Witowski and two other teens were riding in the park when they were spotted by the roving gang. One of the three youths, Ronald Carriewau, broke away, while Witowski picked up a beer can and flung it and the group. The fatal shot followed and the youths scattered, Brewer said.

Decreed

PAW PAW — Paw Paw village council last night designated June 18 as Scott Walters Day in honor of the Paw Paw high school athlete. Walters won the state Class C pole vault title June 5 with a leap of 14-feet one-quarter inch. Walters also holds southwestern Michigan's all-time best mark of 14-feet, 7 inches, which he set earlier in the season. There are no special plans for the day, according to Clerk Maxine Chipman.

Career On Line Against Foreman

Pressure On Frazier

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — "Smokin' Joe" Frazier will try to "cool it" tonight as he tries to save his career in a fight against George Foreman, who humiliated him in Jamaica almost 3 1/2 years ago.

"He's got to keep his cool," said George Benton, who helps Eddie Futch train Frazier. "If he gets hit, he has to back off and say, 'I got hit and can't let it happen again.'"

On Jan. 22, 1973, Frazier, then the heavyweight champion of the world, was knocked down six times and stopped in two rounds by George Foreman, who was a 3 1/2-1 underdog. After each of the first five knockdowns, Frazier got up, and "smoked" toward Foreman.

But after the first knockdown, Frazier's attack was "smoke" only. The fire belonged to Foreman.

Should Frazier lose his cool tonight it almost assuredly will be: "Goodbye, Joe."

Frazier's career has reached the brink before. After he lost to Muhammad Ali in their second fight Jan. 28, 1974, there was pressure on Frazier to quit, and Futch told him that if he didn't beat Jerry Quarry big he should stop fighting. On June 17, 1974, Frazier stopped Quarry in five rounds, surprising him with jabs, straight lefts and rights, all of which made the famed left hook more potent.

There was pressure again on Frazier to quit after he was stopped following 14 grueling rounds against Ali last Oct. 1. When it came time to reach a decision on whether to quit or not, Joe locked himself in his Philadelphia gym with Futch and Benton and went at it with someone described by Futch "as a good young heavyweight."

Joe impressed Futch enough that the trainer-advisor let it be known that Frazier would fight again for the right kind of purse and the kind of opponent that would earn him another title shot. "He didn't need to work his way up," said Futch. "He's been there. He's a former champion of the world."

The money came up as $1 million — the same purse as Foreman's — and the opponent was Foreman. Tonight comes the challenge — possibly the last of Frazier's fighting life.

Futch left little doubt Monday about what will happen if his fighter-mentor loses. "There would be no reason to go on," Futch said. "He will never be just another opponent."

A loss would severely damage Foreman's career, too. But it probably wouldn't end it since George is only 27, five years younger than Frazier.

George is confident. "I know that whatever Joe Frazier does in this fight it will be what I let him do."

But, despite his attempt at psyching Frazier — he told Joe on national television that Joe could have continued in Jamaica, that he quit — Foreman said he respects Frazier and is taking him very seriously.

"If I knew I had his number, I wouldn't be training as hard as I am."

The fight is scheduled for 10:30 p.m. EDT and will be shown on closed-circuit television in 84 cities.

Many Top Pros Skip U.S. Open

ATLANTA (AP) — The increasing value of regular tour events and the three-week, 72-hole hassle involved in gaining a spot in the U.S. Open have prompted a number of golf's touring pros to skip the American national championship.

"I don't need the aggravation," said outspoken Dave Hill, winner of a dozen tour titles and runnerup in the 1970 United States championship.

"Why waste the time?" asked George Archer, a former Masters champion.

"(The national Open) doesn't mean anything unless you win it, so why foul up yourself and your game for three or four weeks to play in one tournament?" Inquired Allen Miller, a former Tallahassee Open titleholder.

Those three, along with veteran Fred Marti and Gibby Gilbert, the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic titleholder, were among the touring pros who didn't even attempt to qualify for the 1976 American national title chase that begins Thursday at the Atlanta Athletic Club course.

There are a number of others who are considerably less than enchanted with the qualification requirements set up by the United States Golf Association.

"How many players have won three tournaments since the last U.S. Open?" asked Roger Maltbie, who has collected the crowns in the Quad-Cities, Pleasant Valley and Memorial tournaments in the last 12 months.

"It just never occurred to me that I might not qualify," said Maltbie, a $100,000 winner already this year and certainly one of the game's more proficient players. He failed in the second round of qualifying last week in Charlotte, N.C. So did Tony Jacklin of England, a former U.S. and British Open king, along with Julius Boros and Sam Snead.

Most of the other regular touring pros who declined to even enter the event also objected to the strenuous qualifying rounds.

Those rounds were necessary to pare the record 4,428 entries to a workable number — 150 — for the championship. Local qualifying, 36 holes, were held at 58 locations May 20, 23 and 24. The 530 survivors of those rounds then advanced to sectional qualifying, also at 36 holes, at 13 locations June 7 and 8.

"I'm trying to make a living out here (on the tour)," Miller said. "If I go through both

NBA's Braves May Move South

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — For the first time in its 30-year history, the National Basketball Association likely will have a franchise in Florida for the 1976-77 season.

The approval of the NBA's Board of Governors — virtually a rubber stamp — is necessary to move the Buffalo Braves from New York's upstate snow belt to sunny, tropical Florida. The Board is scheduled to vote on the sale and transfer Wednesday.

The only other hitch in the move appeared to be a suit threatened by Buffalo's corporation counsel, Leslie G. Foschio. Foschio said the suit would charge antitrust violations.

"We hope to be in court tomorrow," Foschio said Monday. "I think the city has been misled by previous promises and presentations."

Paul Snyder, who had owned the Buffalo franchise virtually since its inception in 1970, announced Monday he had given Irving Cowan, president of the financially-troubled Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood, Fla., an option to purchase 100 percent of the Braves' stock, for a price estimated at $7 million to $8 million.

Snyder sold 3,032 season tickets for the 1976-77 campaign which will not begin until October. However, Snyder, who contends he has lost $3 million in the past six years, including $250,000 last season, had insisted that 3,000 season tickets be sold by Monday or else he would be unable Snyder's decision was surprising only in view of the fact that the Braves already had to continue in Buffalo, which suddenly has become a declining sports market.

"The decision to sell and move the team has now been made," the Braves said Monday in a statement which was made available both in Buffalo and at the NBA meetings at this Cape Cod community. "It was reached with deep regret on Paul Snyder's part and on the part of everyone connected with the team."

While the proposed sale of the Braves overshadowed developments at Monday's meetings, the major item of business still remained the proposed merger of the NBA and clubs from the ABA.

The NBA still had under consideration ABA plans to accept four, five or six teams for the 1976-77 season.

Sometimes the frustrations of losing make a man want to scream. Montreal's Don Stanhouse took his opportunity in the top half of the fourth inning in the dugout at San Diego Stadium.

The Expos had won just three of their last 13 games and languished at the bottom of the National League's East Division when Stanhouse walked into the dugout and let loose an angry barrage at his teammates and anyone else within earshot.

"I was mad and I said a few things in the dugout that got a few people upset," recalled the right-hander. "Basically, I just screamed that I was tired of losing and for them to start swinging their bats. We haven't been selling the world on fire with our hitting."

Catcher Barry Foote, watching in the on-deck circle as Pete Mackanin reached third on a three-base error by Padres left-fielder Gene Locklear, must have heard his pitcher's anguished cries. He strode to the plate and sent a Brent Strom pitch into the next area code for a 2-0 Montreal lead.

"I don't know if screaming like that was that answer," said Stanhouse, who fashioned a three-bitter for his first major league shutout, "but maybe tonight it was."

"I'm sick and tired of losing also," said Foote, who expressed his disgust with his bat to power the Expos' 3-0 triumph over the Padres.

In the other NL games Monday night, Cincinnati trimmed Chicago 3-2, Atlanta tripped St. Louis 5-2 and Pittsburgh nipped Houston 2-1.

Ken Griffey's one-out single in the ninth inning scored Dave Concepcion from second base and gave Cincinnati's Gary Nolan his third straight complete game victory.

Concepcion had homered in the third and George Foster connected in the sixth to provide the other Reds runs while Chicago got its pair on Rick Monday's double. It was Cincinnati's 15th triumph in 16 games against the Cubs going back to last season.

Andy Messersmith doubled in two runs and pitched a seven-hitter to carry Atlanta past St. Louis and break a four-game losing streak. The right-hander survived a bases-loaded jam in the ninth to protect his triumph.

Al Oliver's ninth homer of the year and an RBI single by Tommy Helms backed a six-hitter by Pittsburgh's Jerry Reuss and helped the Pirates drop the Astros.

Curtis Strange Joins Pro Ranks

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Curtis Strange says the life of a touring golf professional is "something I have thought about most of my life. Now, I can hardly believe the day is finally here."

With those words, the 21-year-old Virginia Beach golfer — who last year won the State Amateur for a second successive year and whose string of successes is rivaled by few in history in the state — made the expected announcement Monday he was moving to the pro ranks.

Strange just completed his junior year at Wake Forest, which he had helped lead to successive NCAA team championships in 1974 and 1975. The first year, he eagled the 72nd hole and became only the second freshman in history to take home the individual medal.

His amateur career came in a somewhat sad end last week when Wake Forest could finish no better than fourth in the NCAA tournament. At that, Strange was the only Deacon golfer who broke 300 as he finished in a tie for seventh place.

Strange will make his professional debut in the Western Open next week, after which he will go to Great Britain in an effort to qualify for the British Open.

He will continue to play in several European tournaments before using the second of his three U.S. exemptions to play in the World Open in September at Pinehurst, N.C., where this spring he won the North and South Amateur title for the second year in a row.

Strange will try to qualify for the PGA tour in the fall Tournament Players Division school, which isn't until December.

"That opens a lot of doors ... gives me a chance to play in a lot of tournaments," said Strange, son of the late Tom Strange, one of Virginia's top pro golfers until his death some five years ago.

He won the Southeastern Amateur in his first year at Wake Forest, took the Western Amateur in 1974 and last year captured the Eastern Amateur, where his father had won the first title almost 20 years earlier.

He was a member of the U.S. team that won the World Amateur title in 1974 and reached the semifinals of the U.S. Amateur. He was the high point man in last year's American victory over the British in the Walker Cup matches.

This past spring he was the low amateur in the Masters and finished 15th over-all to earn an invitation to the 1977 tournament.

Pitching Dominates Play In Connie Mack Openers

Pitchers dominated the action Monday night as the Southwest Connie Mack league kicked off the season.

Fairplain's Richard Maxwell outduelled Benton Heights' Rick Haneey as Fairplain posted a 4-3 victory. Jeff Buller posted a 3-1 shutout as North Lincoln stopped Coloma 4-0 and Dave Whittaker pitched Watervliet to a 3-1 win over Hagar.

Heights went ahead in the first inning as Rick Haneey and John Hamilton both scored on errors. But Fairplain tied it up with single runs in the first and third innings. Mike Parrish notched the first run and Jeff Phillips the second.

Fairplain went out front for good in the sixth inning, scoring twice. The winning run came across when Bart Bodtke executed a perfect suicide squeeze bunt that scored Gary Bartolone.

Randy Powell, who had three singles, got on base in the seventh for Benton Heights and scored on Wilson Price's single.

Diller only gave up four hits in going the distance for North Lincoln. His teammates scored single runs in the first and seventh and two in the sixth inning.

Dennis Riley was the losing hurler for Coloma.

Watervliet gave Whittaker all the runs he needed in the initial inning as Andy Edge and Roger Prince walked and Benny Banasik singled both home. Jeff Elcheberger knocked in the other run in the fourth with a suicide squeeze bunt.

Jim Nicholas was the losing hurler. Hagar notched its only run in the sixth frame when Dan Soderburg came in from third on a single by Craig Beckman.

Saints Buy Gilliam

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "We certainly can't lose anything," said Coach Hank Stram after the New Orleans Saints claimed Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Joe Gilliam from the waiver list for a mere $100.

Pittsburgh waived Gilliam, one of the National Football League's top passers, after a year of mutual disillusionment.

"We are delighted to get a chance at him," Stram said Monday. "And we're not concerned with what problems he might have had in the past. We'll judge him for ourselves."

But it remained a perplexing situation. When Gilliam was put on waivers, all other teams in the American Conference had first crack at picking him up for the waiver price of $100. They passed.

In the National Conference, Seattle's new Seahawks were first in line. Then it came New Orleans turn to exercise the option. Stram took him.

Why did other teams pass him up? Why did Stram, with six other quarterbacks already on the payroll, add another?

"If he was just another quarterback," that question would be valid," said Stram. "But Joe Gilliam is one of the finest young quarterbacks in the National Football League. He helped contribute to two Super Bowl championships, and just two years ago we (the Kansas City Chiefs) offered a No. 1 draft choice and another player for him."

The West will stay like it was

Each division winner will qualify for the district championship to be held at Portage in August.

Maine, Arizona Bag Series Wins

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The honor of Eastern baseball has been upheld.

"I don't give a damn what the poll says about us, we proved tonight that we belong here," said Maine Coach John Wink after his scrappy Black Bears stayed alive in the 30th College World Series.

Maine, 29-8, stopped Washington State 6-3 to survive an elimination round game in the collegiate classic dominated by teams from the West.

Arizona, ranked second to tournament favorite Arizona State, was the night's other victor, thumping Clemson 10-6.

Glidden Reassigned

BANGOR — Terry Glidden has been reassigned at Bangor High school it was announced today.

Glidden will give up the head football reigns and take over as cross-country coach next season.

Glidden was the football mentor for eight years before last season when the Vikings dropped football for lack of money.

He will also remain as head track coach. "This way I will be able to coordinate the two programs better," Glidden indicated.

Lake Michigan Catholic's Bill Frantz has decided to enroll at Adrian College. Frantz earned all-Red Arrow Conference basketball honors as a center in high school, but Adrian head coach Tony Arethibald says the six-foot, six-inch eager will play forward in college.

MacCormack's Debut Spoiled Royals Batter Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — Frank MacCormack's major league pitching debut wasn't bad, but the support of his Detroit Tiger teammates was.

With Kansas City, the class of the American League West, in town, MacCormack was in trouble before he threw the first pitch.

The Royals, who seem to do everything well and almost nothing wrong — in direct contrast to the Tigers, beat Detroit 5-2 Monday night to give Al Fitzmorris his eighth victory against just two losses.

Kansas City stole five bases, including a double steal that featured a theft of home, pulled off three doubleplays and pitched out of a couple jams as the Royals raised their victory string to six games.

Detroit, meanwhile, committed three errors in one inning, lost a run when a man didn't slide at the plate and, in general, looked like a good Triple-A baseball team.

The Tigers will try to get things together tonight when they'll let another pitcher make a debut. Dave Lemanczyk, who has spent the first third of the season at Class AAA Evansville, is scheduled to make his first appearance of the season since his recall last week.

Paul Splittorff, 3-6, is the probable for the Royals, who'll end their Detroit series Wednesday when Doug Bird faces "Bird" — rookie pitcher Mark "Bird" Fidrych.

"We can play pretty well," Royals Manager Whitey Herzog said in a bit of understatement.

MacCormack, 21, gave up two unearned runs in the fourth and was replaced by Jim Crawford in the seventh after Al Cowans singled, Tom Poquette doubled and Fred Patek doubled them home.

"That kid's got a good arm," Herzog said of MacCormack. "Bring up Fidrych and that guy in one season and that's two big pluses."

Tom Hall relieved in the ninth inning with two outs and the bases loaded for Detroit and struck out pinch hitters Ben Ogilvie and Bill Freehan to end the game. Freehan looked at a third strike.

Steve Mingori had relieved Fitzmorris in the seventh and blanked Detroit for 2 1/3 innings. Fitzmorris complained of a pulled muscle beside his right knee. (Herzog said he probably won't miss a turn.)

MacCormack's major league pitching debut wasn't bad, but the support of his Detroit Tiger teammates was.

With Kansas City, the class of the American League West, in town, MacCormack was in trouble before he threw the first pitch.

The Royals, who seem to do everything well and almost nothing wrong — in direct contrast to the Tigers, beat Detroit 5-2 Monday night to give Al Fitzmorris his eighth victory against just two losses.

Kansas City stole five bases, including a double steal that featured a theft of home, pulled off three doubleplays and pitched out of a couple jams as the Royals raised their victory string to six games.

Detroit, meanwhile, committed three errors in one inning, lost a run when a man didn't slide at the plate and, in general, looked like a good Triple-A baseball team.

The Tigers will try to get things together tonight when they'll let another pitcher make a debut. Dave Lemanczyk, who has spent the first third of the season at Class AAA Evansville, is scheduled to make his first appearance of the season since his recall last week.

Paul Splittorff, 3-6, is the probable for the Royals, who'll end their Detroit series Wednesday when Doug Bird faces "Bird" — rookie pitcher Mark "Bird" Fidrych.

"We can play pretty well," Royals Manager Whitey Herzog said in a bit of understatement.

Tanana Learns Hard Way From Hank Aaron

From Associated Press

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Frank Tanana, while rated by many as the American League's best left-handed pitcher, learned Monday night it still is risky to throw a mistake to Hank Aaron.

Aaron, 42, blasted a soft Tanana curve into the left-field seats with two men on, capping a five-run Milwaukee third inning. Don Money and light-hitting Gary Sutherland also hummered off Tanana as the Brewers pounded the California Angels 8-2 for their third victory in four games.

Boston blanked Minnesota 5-0 on Rick Wise's one-hitter and Kansas City topped Detroit 5-2 in Monday night's other American League games.

Tanana, 35, struck out 10 batters, raising his major league leading total to 123 in 118 1/3 innings, but the Brewers hammered him for nine hits and eight runs before Andy Hassler relieved in the seventh.

"That will never happen to me again this year," Tanana said of his battering. "We've had a tough road trip and I'm tired, but I'm a big league pitcher and should be able to adjust. I didn't adjust. You've got to pitch. You can't be a thrower."

"My curve ball was good, but I lost the hard one about the third inning," he said. "I threw a real soft one to Henry, a roundhouse. I rolled it in instead of snapped it, and he hit it well."

But Aaron wasn't sure he had his 748th career homer, extending his own record, and third this year until the line drive cleared the wall.

"It's been such a long time, I didn't know if it was going out or not," he said. "I just ran."

Charlie Moore doubled, one of his three hits, leading off the Brewers third and scored on a single by Sutherland. Singles by Von Joshua and Money produced another run and set up Aaron's homer.

A two-out single by Gorman Thomas and Sutherland's first homer of the year gave the Brewers a 7-1 lead in the fourth, and Money belted his ninth homer with none on in the fifth. The homers raised the total off Tanana this year to 14.

"When a pitcher has stuff like that, you just don't hit," said Minnesota's Rod Carew after Rick Wise had stuff like that and blanked the Twins on one hit.

Jerry Terrell's infield hit in the third inning was the only safety Minnesota managed against Wise, who threw a no-hitter for Philadelphia in 1971.

Kamradt Keys Bridgman Win

BRIDGMAN — Dan Kamradt hurled a three-hitter as Bridgman Connie Mack downed South Haven Connie Mack 12-1 here Monday in the Blue-Gray League opener for both teams.

Kim Mulder had three hits and drove in four runs while Kamradt, who struck out 10, had a single and three RBIs. Bob Foster added a RBI single.

Part Of 'User-Pay Concept' State Hiking Park Fees

It's going to cost more next summer to use state parks and forests in Michigan.

Expected entry and camping fee increases are part of "user-pay concept" being pushed by the governor and his executive office.

State park daily use fees will probably be hiked from $1 to $2 a day — $3 for out-of-state user at Warren Dunes State Park in Berrien county. The annual state park entry sticker would go from $5 to $7.

The state park hikes are expected to generate an additional $1.9 million in revenues...about the amount the parks division budget is being cutback for the upcoming fiscal year. (A Department of Natural Resources spokesman says the idea of the cutback was to force fee increases under user-pay concept.)

Gov. Milliken's office once considered raising state park camping fees from $4 to $7, depending upon facilities. But when it was discovered state park campers are already paying their way, it was decided that entry fees would be hiked instead.

But there probably will be camping fee increases at state forest campgrounds (many are now free) next year. A $3 annual permit is being considered, it would generate about $600,000 — the amount the state forest budget is being slashed. Again, the fee and budget cut are part of the user-pay idea being promoted in the state.

Park and state forest budgets and fee increases are still tied up in the legislative process, but Jim Cleary of the Department of Natural Resources' administrative services division believes it will all work out.

Cleary understands that the appropriation committees will approve the reduced budgets, but with provisions that money cuts would be made up with general fund money. The fee increases would then go into the general fund.

Outdoor Trail

By JOHN VANDEN HEED

There will be salmon snagging this fall on the St. Joseph River below the Buchanan dam.

The Buchanan site gives southwestern Michigan three snagging areas overall...the other two being on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam and on the Kalamazoo River below the Allegan dam.

The snagging season at all three spots will run from Sept. 1 to Nov. 15. Snaggers will be limited to the use of artificial or natural baits utilizing unweighted double or treble-pointed hooks not to exceed three-eighths of an inch from point to shank, or unweighted single-pointed hooks not to exceed one-half inch from point to shank.

Buchanan's snagging area, which was made possible by the construction of a fish ladder in the Berrien Springs dam, will include an area running about one-half mile downstream (signs will mark the area).

Berrien Springs snagging will again be from the dam downstream to the US-31 bridge and snagging on the Kalamazoo will again run from the mouth up to the Allegan dam.

The purchase of 80 acres for the Crane Pond State Game Area in Cass county has been approved by the Natural Resources Commission.

The land, offered by Larry G. Datema of Marcellus for $30,000, will be purchased with public recreation bond funds.

The Department of Natural Resources statement on the purchase said the property will allow for expanded public use in the vicinity of Bugart Lake, and consolidate state ownership for improved management of a wildlife unit as a part of the Crane Pond State Game Area.

There was a record turkey harvest during the spring gobble season in northern Michigan. Hunters bagged 372 turkeys in the Mio and Baldwin areas, an increase of 52 over last year's record harvest.

Mio area hunters killed 248 turkeys, compared to 182 last year. In the Baldwin area, the harvest dropped from 129 in 1975 to 124 this year.

Cass Bass Club State Champions

The Sportsman Bass Club of Cass county captured top honors at the recent Michigan State Fish-Off at the Hardy dam on the Muskegon River.

The Cass club also had three of the top 10 individual finishers while finishing almost 20 pounds ahead of the second place team.

Ken DeBoer of the Cass club was the top individual with a two-day total of 15 pounds, 12 ounces of smallmouth bass. Cass' Paul Converse was third and Dennis Harness took seventh.

Other members of the Cass team were Gene Decker, Roger Houseworth and Stan Przybyz.

The team caught more than 50 pounds of bass over the two days of the contest.

The top six individuals in the contest, including DeBoer and Converse, also qualified for the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (BASS) national contest in September at a site to be named two weeks before the event.

Snowmobile Grants Made

Three southwestern Michigan counties are receiving grants of more than $4,000 to reimburse the major cost of their snowmobile safety programs last winter.

Cass is being awarded $3,000.00, Berrien $98.27 and Van Buren $215.56 by the Department of Natural Resources.

DNR payments cover up to three-fourths of each county's cost of carrying out snowmobile law enforcement and safety, education training last winter. Grants are made from receipts collected from snowmobile registrations.

Inland Lakes Guide Available

Environmentally concerned owners of property around Michigan's 11,000 inland lakes may want a copy of a new booklet called "Planning and Management Guidelines for Inland Lake Property Owners," developed by the Department of Natural Resources.

The publication contains a series of illustrations related to protection of water quality, fish and other aquatic life, and shorelines, and suggests the most beneficial methods for new building and lakeside development.

Free copies are available at DNR offices statewide, or from the DNR's Inland Lake Management Unit, Eighth Floor, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, 48926.

Boat Check

A free motorboat safety check will be conducted by the St. Joseph Coast Guard Auxiliary on Saturday, June 19, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Benton Harbor boat ramp on Riverview drive.

Whales Can Drown

Whales, like all other mammals, can drown if they get water in their lungs.

SMC DOWNRIGGER: Downrigger made as a project in die making class at Southwestern Michigan College in Dowagiac is inspected by (left-right) Duane Hall and Roger Conrad, instructors in the machine tool technology program at SMC, and Francis Hiscock, SMC dean of applied science. Downriggers are a fishing device used by anglers for deep water fishing on Lake Michigan. A weight lowered on a wire line lets fishermen put their lures at a specific depth.

Fishing Report

Perch angling is again becoming a highlight on the southwestern Michigan fishing scene.

Some jumbo perch have been taken off the rocks at South Haven, and the Department of Natural Resources expects the Lake Michigan fishery to continue to pick up momentum.

Elsewhere on the Big Lake, trollers are generally finding lake trout scattered and hard to find. They are ranging from depths of 50 to 200 feet.

Salmon fishing on Lake Michigan is listed as "fair" by the DNR. Coho are now averaging more than three pounds. Occasional 20-pound class chinook are also being taken.

Inland lake fishermen are having the best luck on bluegills. Anglers are using earthworms, fly rods with dry flies and spinning rigs with rubber spiders or poppers.

Better bluegill waters have included Baseline and Eagle Lakes in Allegan county; Magician, Juno and Diamond Lakes in Cass county; Paw Paw Lake in Berrien county, and Christie, Eagle, Three Mile and Van Auken Lakes in Van Buren county.

Bass fishing is getting better as the water warms. Good success has been noted on Paradise, Donnell and Diamond Lakes in Cass county.

Michigan Second In Hunting

Michigan ranks second in the nation in hunting licenses and fifth for fishing licenses, according to figures released by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

There were $95,988 paid hunting license holders in Michigan a year ago, a figure second only to the 1,245,740 in Pennsylvania. The gross cost of licenses, tags, permits and stamps to hunters in Michigan was $9,331,109.00, a total second only to Pennsylvania's $14,185,507.50.

California tops the list for paid fishing license holders at 2,348,293. It is followed by

The gross cost of licenses, tags, permits and stamps was $18,938,835.00 in California. Wisconsin stood at $8,948,327.50, Texas $6,586,861.02, Pennsylvania $6,482,422.00 and Michigan $6,301,606.50.

Overall, a record 44 million Americans spent close to $300 million on state hunting and fishing licenses. The figures represent an increase of $26 million in state sales and 600,000 in license holders over 1974. Since some states do not require licenses for ocean fishing, children under 16 or senior citizens, these figures are considered conservative estimates.

Channel Policy Unchanged

Department of Natural Resources officials say a recent State Attorney General's opinion on a Natural Resources Commission policy statement will not change the procedure for environmental review of permit applications for upland channel construction.

Increased construction of those channels, dug back into the shoreline from the lakes and streams, and subsequent residential development around them had resulted in water resource degradation by 1974, says the DNR.

In response, the commission subsequently adopted a policy statement discouraging permit issuance for upland channel building. The Attorney General's recently-issued opinion says the policy statement must follow administrative rule-making procedures before it can be used as a legal tool in review and consideration of construction permits.

But the DNR's M.C. Nielsen, chief of the submerged lands management section, says other

Food Stamp Order Delay Asked

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court is being asked to delay indefinitely the new Ford administration regulations that eventually would take food-stamp benefits from an estimated 1.68 million families.

The regulations were delayed last month by another judge, but his order expires today and 22 states, 73 families, the U.S. Conference of Mayors and 108 private organizations were asking U.S. District Court Judge John Lewis Smith Jr., for a preliminary injunction against the rules.

In addition to those who would be eliminated from the rolls, some 1.72 million families would have their benefits cut under the new rules. About half the remaining households would have improved benefits.

Generally, the regulations would limit stamps to those families with monthly incomes no more than $106 above the official poverty lines. That's $383 plus $100 for a three-person household, for example.

That monthly income would be calculated by averaging the actual earnings of the previous three months. The present system is based on anticipated income for the month ahead.

Ronald Pollack, director of the Food Research and Action Center (FRAC) and chief attorney for the coalition, told the court in asking for the injunction that the Agriculture Department has "autocratically assumed the function of the legislative branch."

The regulations, ordered by President Ford on Feb. 19, were to go into effect June 1. But on May 28, Judge Howard Corcoran granted the coalition's petition for a temporary restraining order against the new rules.

That order was granted because Corcoran was convinced that "irreparable harm" would be done to disenfranchised recipients if the rules were implemented before it was ruled whether the contion's objections were valid.

To secure a preliminary injunction, the plaintiffs must persuade Smith that they have a high probability of winning when the legal and constitutional issues are fully argued at yet a third hearing.

Both sides are ready to appeal decisions they lose. So the status quo for the program, which now grants benefits to some 5.8 million families, is expected to be maintained for months.

Bailey's Version

F. Lee Bailey breezed into Los Angeles Monday for a whirlwind tour of TV talk shows, telling the Patty Hearst story his way.

Bailey blames the verdict on adverse rulings by the judge who permitted jurors to hear the entire story of Miss Hearst's nearly two years as a fugitive, refusing to limit evidence to the San Francisco bank robbery with which she was charged. (AP Wirephoto)

Oil Breakup Bill 'Warrants Debate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A closely divided Senate Judiciary Committee is taking up a controversial bill which would force the breakup of the nation's 18 largest oil companies by limiting their operations to one segment of the industry.

Within five years, the firms would have to choose between production, transportation or refining-marketing. Judiciary Committee hearings were to begin today. Republican leader Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., a Judiciary Committee member, said that he favored reporting the bill to the Senate even though he might vote against it in the end.

"It's the kind of bill that warrants public debate," he said. Supporters contend that splintering the industry giants into separate, smaller segments would increase competition and lower prices. Opponents maintain the industry already is highly competitive and argue the bill would make it less efficient, add to costs, reduce production, and mean higher prices for consumers.

Beard Sparks Suit

DETROIT (AP) — A reserve airman at Selfridge Air National Guard Base is suing the Air Force for ordering him to spend 45 days on active duty following a dispute over the length of his beard. The reservist, Harrison Carter, says his doctor told him to wear the beard to alleviate a skin condition aggravated by shaving. Carter, a 22-year-old black, also charges in his suit that the way the Air Force measures his beard—by pulling the curly whiskers straight—is racial discrimination. An Air Force regulation requires that beards worn for medical reasons be no longer than one-quarter inch.

Van Buren Districts Approve Most Levies

Voters in five Van Buren county public high school districts gave their approval to tax issues appearing on their district ballots yesterday.

At the same time, voters in another district approved a major issue but turned down addition of a new levy.

Only one district in the county with a millage issue on the ballot was turned down totally. The defeat came in Gobles where a two-mill levy went by the boards.

The five where issues were approved were Decatur, Lawrence, Lawton, Mattawan, and Paw Paw.

The split came in the Bloomingdale district where renewal of a major levy was approved, but the proposed creation of a sinking fund was defeated.

Bangor

BANGOR — Harold Wright and Phillip Wiles were elected to four-year terms on the Bangor school board in yesterday's uncontested election.

According to unofficial returns, Wright received 141 votes and Wiles received 158 votes.

Wright, an incumbent, was elected to a 2½-month term last March. Wiles was defeated in that election.

A total of 193 ballots were cast. There were 42 write-in votes for a total of 19 different people.

Three of the five school board members ousted in a special recall election last February led the write-in candidates. Richard Kregel received five votes, and Dr. Joseph Cooper and Fred Waite each received four votes. Donald Freestone, a member of the interim school board, also received four write-in votes.

Bloom'dale

BLOOMINGDALE — School district voters here yesterday elected two board members and approved an 18.5-mill property tax renewal proposal for one year.

Van Buren Judge Frees Man To Attend College

By DENNIS COGSWELL

Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A Paw Paw man who admitted in Van Buren circuit court yesterday that he had violated his probation was set free after telling Judge Meyer Warshawsky that he had turned his life around and planned to go to college.

Robert Case, 24, had been placed on two years probation last Sept. 29 after pleading guilty to a charge of writing a no account check for $41 on April 12, 1975.

One of the conditions of probation was that he live at Bullock House, a half-way house for drug addicts in Grand Rapids. Yesterday, Case admitted he had violated his probation by leaving Bullock House, but told Judge Warshawsky the only reason he had claimed to have a drug problem was to avoid going to jail.

According to William Cunningham, state probation officer, until recently Case had been in the Kalamazoo county jail serving sentence for another no account check charge which occurred just prior to the one for which he was placed on probation.

While there, Case told the judge that he had completed high school through the jail's rehabilitation program, and had secured a grant to study forestry at New York State university.

Judge Warshawsky sentenced Case to 295 days in jail, with as many days credit. Cunningham said the credit included time Case had served before being put on probation, plus the time he was in the Kalamazoo jail, since the probation violation charge was pending.

In other cases, William Curry, 34, 276 Pine, South Haven, was sentenced to serve from 14 months to two years in prison as a result of his earlier plea of no contest in a charge of attempted larceny over $100. The charge grew out of the theft of $480 from the Bi-Lu gas station, South Haven, in January.

Six other persons were arraigned on charges stemming from the May 3 theft of two television sets from a Covert mobile home.

Pleading innocent to charges of breaking and entering were: Brothers Marc Taylor, 23, and Kent Taylor, 22, both of 3312 Eucalyptus road, Benton Harbor; brothers Rick Bone, 18, and Pete Bone, 17, and their sister, Anita Bone, 19, all of 7206 Hillside, Sodus; and Michael Milnikel, 24, 304 Court, St. Joseph.

Ronnie Dale Sikes, 19, route 1, 34th avenue, Bangor, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to swear to false information. The information alleges he used a false name to obtain a driver's license in South Haven during May, 1975.

James Elmer Hatfield, 22, Cooper, Mich., pleaded innocent to a charge of unlawfully driving away an automobile from Almena township May 20.

Wood Voters Okay 11.42-Mill Levy

BANGOR — Eight residents of the Wood school district here last night unanimously re-elected Mrs. Dorothy Johnston to a three-year term on the school board and voted an 11.42-mill property tax levy to run one year.

Added to the county allocated levy of 8.58 mills, the total levy in the grade school district in Bangor township for 1976 will come to 20 mills, according to Mrs. Jean Thomas, board secretary.

The total levy will raise an estimated $14,080 locally to be applied to the 1976-77 budget of $21,030.

Berrien School Voters Pass 10 Tax Issues

Voters throughout the 14 public high school districts in Berrien county went to the polls yesterday to pick school board members and decide the fate of 10 tax issues.

Ten of the 15 issues passed. In only one, New Buffalo, was a proposed renewal of a major property tax levy beaten. Four of the five millage proposals defeated were for additional levies.

School spokesmen there pegged the loss on a heavy voter turnout sparked by the number of candidates seeking the available board positions.

Benton Harbor

Benton Harbor school district voters Monday rejected a 1-mill building maintenance tax, 983 to 748; re-elected incumbent school board member Frank Cully, but defeated incumbent Philip McDonald, according to unofficial returns.

Arthur Crump, acting dean of students at Lake Michigan college, was elected to one of two expiring seats on the board of education. Incumbent McDonald placed fourth in the field of seven candidates.

Vote totals: Cully, 718; Crump, 689; losing candidates: Mary R. DeFoe, 594; McDonald, 554; Otto Sardi, 504; Richard S. Come, 470; and Nora Jefferson, 161.

The proposition to raise one mill in taxes for five years was defeated by a margin of 247 votes in unofficial returns. This compares to the 260-vote defeat in a special election March 16. In that election voters approved renewal of 7.5 mills in operating taxes but rejected the building maintenance levy, 1,018 to 1,338.

The maintenance tax would have run for five years and raised about $200,000 annually. E.E. (Bill) Bentley, president of the board of education, said "it's unfortunate the tax was rejected." Bentley said "People don't understand that buildings have to be maintained." Bentley said the Benton Harbor board wants to do maintenance on a regular pay-as-you-go basis. Bentley said the failure of the levy now could mean a sizeable repair bill later on.

The millage was approved in 11 of 23 precincts and tied in the city hall precinct. Ten of the precincts favoring the tax were in Benton Harbor, Fairplain and Bard. Only Lafayette in outlying areas favored the millage by a 36 to 47 vote.

Berrien Springs

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Peter Rudell, a 15-year veteran of the Berrien Springs school board, was defeated in a bid for re-election in yesterday's annual school election.

Voters in the district elected incumbent William Boyd and challenger Robert Sill to the two, four-year board posts.

A 6.2-mill property tax levy proposal was approved 692 to 433. Sill led a field of five candidates in securing the upset over Rudell. Unofficial returns showed he led the field with 649 votes, followed by Boyd with 462.

Rudell finished third in the five-man race, with 387 votes. He was followed by Franklin Fisher, 378, and Kenneth Thompson, 173.

The 6.2-mill property tax levy, for operating purposes, included renewal of 3.2 mills and an additional 3 mills for a two-year period. The proposal allows the board to levy all or part of the 6.2 mills, and should all be levied, an estimated $310,000 would be raised.

The school district's 1975-76 operating budget was $2.3 million. The 1976-77 budget has not been set.

School officials said an unofficial total of 1,058 votes were cast. There were no spoiled ballots.

Brandywine

NILES — One incumbent was re-elected and a second was narrowly defeated in balloting yesterday by Brandywine school district voters.

Voters also approved renewal of a three-year 17-mill property tax levy for operating purposes by a near 3-1 margin.

In the race for two, four-year school board posts incumbent Allen Schieber and challenger Mrs. Marilyn Fisher were the

Schieber led a field of four candidates with 232 votes; Mrs. Fisher narrowly defeated incumbent Bernard Henely for the second post, by an unofficial 175 to 168 margin. Challenger John Bittle followed with 122.

The millage renewal question was approved by an unofficial 252 to 85 margin.

The levy will raise about $845,000 toward the district's operating budget which topped $3.1 million for the 1975-76 school year.

School officials said a total of 347 votes was cast.

Bridgman

BRIDGMAN — Bridgman school board incumbents Robert Rath and Dr. Kenneth Kieft were re-elected to four-year board terms in the annual school election yesterday.

They defeated challenger Robert Vintek in a three-way race for the two available terms.

According to preliminary election results, Rath received 392 votes; Kieft, 307; and Vintek, 193.

There were no millage or special issues on the ballot. School officials said 494 people cast ballots out of some 2,000 registered voters.

Vote totals: Cully, 718; Crump, 689; losing candidates: Mary R. DeFoe, 594; McDonald, 554; Otto Sardi, 504; Richard S. Come, 470; and Nora Jefferson, 161.

The proposition to raise one mill in taxes for five years was defeated by a margin of 247 votes in unofficial returns. This compares to the 260-vote defeat in a special election March 16. In that election voters approved renewal of 7.5 mills in operating taxes but rejected the building maintenance levy, 1,018 to 1,338.

The maintenance tax would have run for five years and raised about $200,000 annually. E.E. (Bill) Bentley, president of the board of education, said "it's unfortunate the tax was rejected." Bentley said "People don't understand that buildings have to be maintained." Bentley said the Benton Harbor board wants to do maintenance on a regular pay-as-you-go basis. Bentley said the failure of the levy now could mean a sizeable repair bill later on.

The millage was approved in 11 of 23 precincts and tied in the city hall precinct. Ten of the precincts favoring the tax were in Benton Harbor, Fairplain and Bard. Only Lafayette in outlying areas favored the millage by a 36 to 47 vote.

Buchanan

BUCHANAN — Buchanan school district voters here turned out in large numbers yesterday to pass three millage issues totaling 20.4 mills and to elect two school board members from a field of six candidates.

A total of 1,789 votes was cast in yesterday's election, out of a possible 4,000 registered voters, according to Paul Montgomery, school business manager. Montgomery termed the turnout "high" compared to the average school election turnout of around 1,000 voters.

Voters approved renewal of 17 mill property tax levy for three years by a vote of 1,318 to 381.

A 2.4 mill levy for one year to restore a variety of proposed program cuts won approval by a margin of 883 to 718, and a one mill levy for three years to finance what school officials say are much needed building repairs passed by an 876 to 680 count.

The total 20.4 mills approved yesterday will raise some $1,274,612 in local revenue toward the district's tentative budget of $3,050,000, based on the district's new state equalized valuation of $2,480,974.

Winning election to the two, four-year school board seats were incumbent Robert Luke, 725 votes, and newcomer Dr. Charles F. Ward, top vote getter at 816. They defeated Mrs. Mary Firehammer, 692 votes; Robert Hand, 413; Alan Watson, 252; and Robert Clifford, 149. David Hanson, school board president, did not seek re-election.

Coloma

COLOMA — Coloma school district voters approved a 2.5 mill school operating property tax levy, 944 to 888, in yesterday's school district election.

The three-year issue will raise an estimated $136,700 yearly, based on a 93 per cent collection rate of local taxes. The district's proposed tentative budget for 1976-77 is pegged at $3,838,809.

In elections to the school board, three candidates were unopposed in bidding for the offices. Incumbents Marshall Badi and Edward Messal each won four-year terms on the board. Badi polled 1,194 votes while Messal received 1,305. Winning a one-year term on the board was newcomer Charles Dean Mihney with 1,247 votes.

Claire school district voters in yesterday's annual school election.

Two school board members were also elected. They were incumbent Mrs. Beva Murphy and newcomer Albert Simoz.

In unofficial returns, renewal of a six-mill property tax levy for operating purposes was approved by a 248 to 91 margin. A second tax proposal, for an additional two mills, was defeated by a 211 to 129 margin. Both proposals were for three years.

The renewed six-mill levy will raise an estimated $60,000 toward the district's 1976-77 budget of $1.6 million.

Mrs. Murphy led the four-candidate field for the board seats with 238 unofficial votes, followed by Simoz with 165. Challengers Mrs. Judy Coffeen and Mrs. Shirley Preis followed with 153 and 84 votes, respectively.

School officials said there were five spoiled ballots.

Galien

GALIEN — Newcomers Alfred Gluth and Jack Estep won four-year terms on the Galien school board in the annual school elections yesterday.

The two outpolled the third newcomer candidate, D.B. Keefe Jr., and a last-minute write-in campaign conducted in behalf of incumbent Wanda Babcock who had decided not to seek re-election.

According to preliminary returns, Gluth received 289 votes; Estep, 181; Keefe, 166; and Mrs. Babcock, 119.

The other incumbent, Raymond Frye, lost his board seat with a total of 201 votes. There were 488 ballots cast. Both board seats are four-year terms.

New Buffalo

NEW BUFFALO — A heavy turnout of voters here for the annual school election yesterday was blamed for the defeat of two property tax levies sought for financing school operations.

Supt. Walter Schwarz said the heavy turnout was triggered by the large field of candidates for the three available board seats and caused the millage defeats.

According to election officials, 1,271 voters balloted out of a possible 3,500 registered voters.

Schwarz said the normal turnout is 700 to 800.

Deated in voting was a request to renew a 14.624-mill levy for three years and a request for an additional 1.988 mills for one year.

The renewal, according to unofficial tabulations, lost 617 to 628. The additional lost 590 to 624. There were 28 spoiled ballots in the renewal issue and 27 spoiled ballots on the additional.

School officials said prior to the balloting that the two millage issues were to produce about $1,070,000 towards a 1976-77 operating budget of $1,572,813. The one 1.988-mill additional would have raised about $80,000 of the total.

Elected to four-year terms on the board in the balloting were Ronald Oselka and Willard Covert. They defeated nine other candidates seeking the posts, including incumbent Veronica Schroder.

George Cain, an incumbent, won the other board position, a one-year term.

Vote totals for the 11 seeking the four-year terms were Oselka, 341; Covert, 426; Elmo Gonzalez, 330; Mrs. Schroder, 274; Arnold A. Casper, 248; Violet Waller, 164; Alva C. O'Dell, 93; Mary Ann Hamilton, 68; Thomas Huff, 57; Audrey Graham, 44 and Robert Hartline, 29.

Former school board member Joseph Lehner finished third in the balloting with 281, followed by Peter Smith, 264, and Rev. William McVay with 256.

There were no millage or bond issues on the ballot.

St. Joseph

Mrs. Freda Sparks, an incumbent, and Dr. John Porritt, an oral surgeon, were elected to the St. Joseph board of education Monday, and a 1-mill building and site fund tax was approved by voters. Unofficial returns showed that Proposition 1 to create the building and site sinking fund carried 1,267 to 1,099, and Proposition II to levy the tax was approved by 68 votes, 1,191 to 1,123. Both propositions had to pass for the 1-mill tax increase to become effective.

Mrs. Sparks, who has served on the board three years, won election to a full four-year term by leading the field of six candidates with 1,192 votes. Porritt was elected to his first term with 1,189 votes.

Unofficial totals for other candidates: William Beliman, 847; A. Wayne Bentz, 446; Tony Swerbinsky, 421; and Mrs. Caryl DaBan, 323.

The building and site tax for maintenance of school buildings carried at Brown school and senior high precincts by margins big enough to offset rejections at North Lincoln and Milton junior high precincts.

Board President Ray Dumke said: "I'm very happy and congratulate all who favored the millage. It means we can restore cuts made last year in several areas."

River Valley

THREE OAKS — River Valley school district voters yesterday approved the renewal of an 11.8-mill property tax levy and elected Mrs. Mary Ray, John Schwark and Larry Mitchell to the school board.

According to unofficial returns, the millage proposal passed by a vote of 688 to 273.

W.E. Griffin, the board president this year, did not seek re-election.

The millage lost 272 to 285. The 1.15 mills sought for one year would have raised an estimated $35,400 towards a tentative 1976-77 budget of $2,083,744.

Riverside Approves Seven-Mill Levy

Riverside school district residents re-elected Paul Marsala to a third three-year term on the school board and approved a seven-mill property tax levy for one year at the annual meeting last night.

With the voted increase, the school district's property tax levy for 1976 is expected to total 15.376 mills, which is a three-mill reduction compared to the 1975 levy. The 1975 voted levy was 10 mills. The proposed budget for next year has been set at approximately $67,000.

River Okays Levy To Meet Budget

SODUS — Six residents at the River school district annual meeting last night re-elected Jake Costanza to another three-year term. He was unopposed.

Jake Dunbar, board secretary, said the board hoped the 1976 millage would be the same, as last year when the district levied 17 mills. Included in that levy were 8.376 mills allocated by the county and 8.624 mills voted as an increase.

Saugatuck Re-Elects 2, Approves 6-Mill Renewal

SAUGATUCK — Two incumbents were re-elected and renewal of a six-mill property tax levy was approved by Saugatuck school district voters in yesterday's annual school election.

Incumbents Kenneth VanderMolen and Russell Wilkinson led the balloting in a field of six candidates for two, four-year school board posts. Unofficial returns showed Wilkinson leading the candidates with 334 votes, while VanderMolen followed with 187.

Unofficial totals for the four other candidates were Richard Burkholder, 133; Ronald Peterson, 128; Mrs. Arlene Philip, 118; and Mrs. Jeanette Resseguie, 55.

The six-mill property tax levy for operating purposes was approved by an unofficial 323-125 margin.

The levy is expected to raise about $128,000. The district's 1975-76 budget was about $900,000.

Eau Claire Tables Action On Firm's Tax Break Bid

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire village council last night postponed a decision on whether to grant Silver Mills Frozen Foods, Inc. a property tax break on its proposed $1 million expansion project here.

Village President J. Caswell Crowder said the firm's request was tabled because Trustee Paul Bergan was absent last night and the council wants all members present for the vote. He said the matter would probably be decided at the July 12 meeting.

The firm is seeking a property tax break under state legislation passed to provide industry with incentive for expansion.

If the council agrees to designate the plant as a plant rehabilitation district, the firm is eligible to be taxed at only half the millage rate on new construction for 12 years. Improvements to existing structures would not be taxed at all for 12 years. The firm would only be taxed on the valuation of its structures without the improvements.

The food processor is planning a $475,000 renovation of present facilities and a 19,200 square foot addition that will cost $300,000 and house new machinery that will cost an additional $200,000.

The improvements would result in 20 new jobs and lead to the retention of 60 full-time jobs, according to the plans announced in April.

In other areas last night, the council postponed signing a contract with the St. Joseph engineering firm of Wightman and Associates which is to perform a required study of area sewer needs. Councilmen said they wanted to see if some cost-cutting could be done on the study's estimated price of over $10,000.

The board voted to convene a public hearing at the July 12 council meeting to discuss three proposed alternate routes for M-62 through Eau Claire.

The council voted to allocate $1,000 of an expected $7,929 federal revenue sharing grant to the library fund. The rest is to be spent on street improvements.

Fennville Voters Elect Newcomer, 2 Incumbents

FENNVILLE — Two incumbents and one newcomer were elected to three Fennville school board posts in yesterday's election here and voters also approved a one mill property tax renewal for building maintenance.

Re-elected to the two, four-year seats were incumbents Ronald Hesche and Mrs. Karen Schermer. Hesche received 354 votes and Mrs. Schermer 344 in defeating challenger Bill Edholm, 316 votes.

Elected to the one, one-year term was Donald Nye, 407 votes, defeating John Kelly, 160 votes. Both sought the seat held by incumbent Barbara Coneau, who did not seek re-election.

The one mill renewal for building maintenance for three years passed by a vote of 402 to 184. Based on the district's state equalized valuation of $27,516,927, the levy will raise $27,538 the first year.

Hartford Pay Hikes Fading, Fading

HARTFORD — The Hartford school board last night said administrators would not be getting pay increases for the 1976-77 school years, unless teachers do.

The announcement virtually closed the door on pay raises for administrators because the board in February denied a request by teachers to open new wage talks for the 1976-77 year. Under the February action, teachers will receive only what are known as step increases already approved for the new school year. The step bumps are based on an additional year of service and are not considered general increases.

The salaries announced last night for administrators were: William Hartman, administrative assistant, $23,503; James Kappler, high school principal, $20,992; Roger Hallgren, middle school principal, $20,512; Gene Spider, Red Arrow elementary principal, and Mary Lou McDonnell, Woodside principal,

Supt. Gary Waterkamp is currently about to enter the second year of a three-year contract. His 1975-76 salary was $25,989, "and as far as I know will remain the same."

In other areas, the board discussed at length, but took no action on what it plans to do to make up a loss of some $73,000 in state aid, being used to repay a school bond loan. One possible solution discussed would be to levy an additional two mills to the property tax rolls to cover it. This could be done without a vote of the people, according to state statute.

The board received a report from the American Arbitration association concerning the suit filed by two former teachers, Joel Kooyers and John McLellan. The decision was in favor of the school board. Samuel Shaw, arbitrator appointed to the case, stated he felt the dismissal was not a disciplinary action on the board's part and that the board has the right to set up job qualifications for teachers. The decision was made on May 14, and an appeal hearing has already been slated for June 21.

It was reported that an egg throwing incident on one of the school buses during the final week of classes last week has been turned over to city police for investigation.

Waterkamp was given permission to spend up to $200 to fill, bulldoze, fence and post an area east of the bus garage that is now being used as a dumping ground. He said rats are beginning to appear. The school has the fencing in stock, Waterkamp said.

The board approved its school calendar for 1976-77, calling for students to report to classes on Sept. 1 and teacher's Aug. 30. Classes will end for students on June 8 and teacher's year will end June 10.

The board hired the Industrial Appraisal company, Pittsburgh,

Pa., at a cost of $1,350 to reappraise the school buildings this year. The contents will be reappraised next year, the board said.

An athletic department budget of $11,000 was approved for the 1976-77 school year.

The board approved paying limers and scorers for girls basketball games a total of $250, to be divided among them.

The board okayed the high school band traveling to Traverse City to participate in the Cherry Festival there, July 9-13.

The board's reorganizational meeting will be held July 12.

LOTS OF WATER

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The nation's utilities drew and distributed more than 30 billion gallons of water each and every day of 1975, according to a study made by the Municipal & Utility Division of Rockwell International, a leading water meter manufacturer.

Dr. Holden is to be assigned to Second Marine Air Wing, New River, S.C.

State Will Pay Hartford $2,330 To Remove Sign

HARTFORD — The Hartford city council last night voted to accept the offer of the state to tear down the sign east of Hartford on Red Arrow highway announcing the city limits.

The state has offered to pay $2,186 for the sign, plus another $144 to the city's public works department for the sign's removal.

The sign must come down because it does not meet the state's 1972 Highway Advertising Control act. The state compensates owners of illegal signs ordered torn down.

In other areas, Mrs. Peggy Walls told the council that a survey she made indicates that there may not be enough intervals in traffic on roads which children cross in going to and from school to insure their safety.

She said she checked several old-used school crossings in late May and early June, looking for 25-second intervals in auto traffic that would allow children to cross the streets safely.

In some cases, she said, there were no 25-second intervals for as much as five minutes, a time span that might cause children to take chances.

Mrs. Walls has been urging city council and school officials to keep present traffic controls, including stop signs and lower speed limits.

City council officials promised to meet with her and school officials on her survey results.

Police Chief Lee Spencer said his department intends to crack down on fireworks violators as July 4 approaches, especially parents, he said.

The council appointed John Empson as building inspector and announced the city's new code book is available at the city hall, or can be purchased for $10 per copy.

Pilot Tells Of Flying Assassins

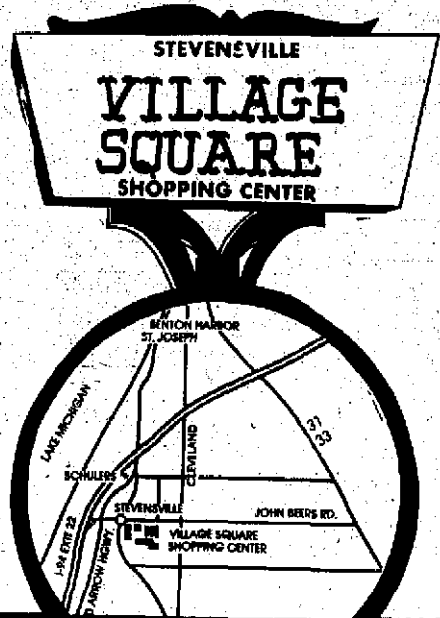

MIAMI (AP) — A Miami pilot who says he once worked for the CIA told a local television station he flew three men to Cuba in the early 1960s on ill-fated attempts by the CIA to assassinate Fidel Castro.

WTVM reported Monday that pilot Bill Johnson said he personally flew three men from a base on Norman Key, 40 miles east of Nassau, to Cuba in 1960 and 1961. Johnson told the station he was working for the CIA at the time but is no longer with the agency.

U.S. Watches Old Earth Dams

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is watching a number of older dams, including one under repair in Alabama, in an effort to prevent another tragedy such as the recent Teton dam burst in Idaho.

Spokesmen for agencies which regulate dams, commenting in the wake of the June 5 failure of the Teton, say they know of no other structures threatening to fail.

Federal Power Commission officials say the FPC is continually monitoring the reworking of the Alabama Power Co. Logan-Martin Dam on the Coosa River. Federal agencies concerned with dam safety have suggested that several older structures in the West be modified.

And, in the wider view, legislation is being considered to coordinate dam safety for all most 50,000 dams, most of them small, in use across the country.

Last year, the Bureau of Land Reclamation surveyed 230 of its older structures and said several could burst under extreme circumstances; McKay in Oregon; Avalon and McMillan in New Mexico; Dickinson and Belle Fourche in South Dakota; Lahontan in Nevada; and Hyrum in Utah.

The problem, the bureau said, is that new flood prediction techniques have determined that the dams' reservoirs could fill more rapidly than their spillways were designed to cope with.

In the case of McKay, for example, the bureau said the dam with a reservoir about one-fourth that of Teton's could dump a half-million cubic feet of water into the valley, rushing toward Pendleton, Ore.

Engineers monitoring the Alabama project are forcing more cement into abutments of the earth-fill structure, and Jim Stout, head of the FPC Licensed Projects Division, says a decision must still be made as to whether the additional support will be adequate to strengthen the earth-fill dam.

Syrians Near Israeli Border

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian tank forces advanced today toward Marjayoun, six miles from the northeast tip of Israel, after capturing Rachaya, the gateway to Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon, a Palestinian spokesman reported.

"If Marjayoun falls," said the Palestinian, "the Syrians will have complete control of the northern and western fringes of the Arkoub region." That 40-square-mile area north and west of Israel and its panhandle has been the Palestinians' last available staging area for guerrilla raids into Israel since King Hussein drove them out of Jordan in 1971. Reports from Rachaya, 32 miles southeast of Beirut, said heavy Syrian fire drove guerrillas and renegade Moslem soldiers from the Lebanese army out of the town Monday after a week of resistance.

Rachaya, 10 miles north of the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights and six miles west of the Syrian border, was the principal way station on the Arafat Trail, the guerrillas' supply route from Syria to the Arkoub.

Gag Rule Lifted In $5-Million Francis Trial

NEW YORK (AP) — Declaring that a courtroom is a "public facility from which the public may not be excluded" under most circumstances, the U.S. Court of Appeals on Monday lifted a gag order in the trial of a $5-million lawsuit by singer Connie Francis.

The Appeals Court order overturned the gag order imposed on press coverage of the proceedings by U.S. District Court Judge Thomas C. Platt, who had closed the trial to the public and reporters last week.

The appeals court ruled that Platt's gag rule directly contravened federal law. It said the court is "a public facility, a public instrumentality from which the public may not be excluded" except for a compelling reason involving a witness's safety or some other reason "outweighing the public interest."

Miss Francis, 37, in a suit against Howard Johnson's motor lodges, claims that the firm was negligent in security at one of the chain's Long Island, N.Y., motels in 1974, when she was raped in her room.

During the trial, she had testified in emotional terms about the assault and the harm it has done to her marriage and her attempts at a show business comeback.

Attorneys for both sides had asked Platt to close the trial because of the "carnival atmosphere" and "prurient interest" the proceedings had attracted.

Judge Platt's gag order was appealed by the New York Daily News and The New York Press Club.

CONNIE FRANCIS AT COURT: Singer Connie Francis looks to her husband Joseph Oarzilli, outside federal court in Brooklyn Monday during break in a civil trial involving Miss Francis. The trial was ordered reopened to public and press by the U.S. Court of Appeals. Miss Francis is seeking $5 million damages from Howard Johnson Motor Lodges, maintaining she was not provided adequate safety when she was raped in a Howard Johnson motel in 1974. (AP Wirephoto)

Teenager Faces Possible Life Term

A Benton Harbor teenager pleaded guilty Monday in Berrien Circuit court to an assault charge that carries a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Keith Foster, 17, was returned to jail in lieu of $15,000 bond to await sentencing on a charge of assault with intent to commit armed robbery.

Foster, who assaulted Hazel Rye with a pistol May 14 in Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a separate charge of armed robbery in connection with the theft of a purse from Linda Rosenthal May 15 in Benton Harbor. That charge also carries a maximum sentence of life.

Foster gave an address of 470 Ohio street when arrested.

A co-defendant in the Hazel Rye case — Roscoe Flemming, 17, of 1150 Union street, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to commit armed robbery and was returned to jail under $15,000 bond.

In other arraignments before Judge Chester J. Byrns:

Willie Lee Purlee, 18, an inmate of the Berrien county jail, pleaded innocent to a charge of third degree criminal sexual conduct — assault with intent to commit sodomy — May 20 against another jail inmate. Purlee, who is serving a one-year sentence for receiving stolen property, failed to post $50,000 bond.

Michael David Jones, 17, US-12, New Buffalo, pleaded innocent to two charges of criminal sexual conduct involving sexual contact and rape of a girl under 18 years of age May 5 in New Buffalo township.

Gary Bernard Lynn, 25, of El Paso, Texas, and John Michael Harvel, 26, of Kalamazoo, pleaded innocent to charges of possession with intent to deliver marijuana May 21 in St. Joseph township. They were jailed in lieu of $3,500 bond each.

Leo Raymond Tertisner, 28, Church street, Colonia, pleaded innocent to damaging a sale with the intent to commit larceny Nov. 8, 1970, at the Lloyd Zech farm in Orinoko township. He was freed on $8,000 bond.

Michael Harris, 23, of 735 Thresher, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of breaking and entering a Benton Harbor apartment May 18. He was jailed in lieu of $7,500 bond.

Andrew Dean Henderson, 17, of 728 Pearl street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of attempted breaking and entering at another house on Pearl street May 17. He posted bond of $1,000.

James Steven Townsend, 18, 2202 Berg street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of breaking and entering a Benton township home Nov. 8, 1975. Juvenile court waived jurisdiction in the case and bond was set at $5,000.

Decatur Buses Will Get Radios

DECATUR — The Decatur school board last night voted to lease two-way radios for all its 14 school buses at a cost of $5,546 yearly.

It's the first time the district has put radios in buses as a communications link with the school while the buses are making their runs.

The lease is to be made with Motorola corporation, school officials said.

In other areas, the board said two used buses for $2,156 each to Bus Mart of Daleville, Ind.; accepted the $2,875 bid of Arnt Asphalt of Kokomo for resurfacing of the parking area at the high school and patching of the parking area at the elementary school; and accepted the bid of First Insurance agency of Kalamazoo for $2.50 per student for accident insurance.

Two Hurt In Pair Of Crashes

St. Joseph police said a driver received apparently minor injuries and another driver was arrested on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants in a two-car collision Monday.

The injured driver was identified as Richard Lee Winslow, 23, of 1484 Agard avenue, Fairplain. He was treated and released from Memorial hospital, St. Joseph.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on a charge of driving under the influence was Nancy Lynn Kutz, 25, of 521 Wayne street, St. Joseph. She is unhurt in the 11:30 p.m. accident that occurred at the intersection of Broad and Wayne streets.

Police said Winslow was ticketed for driving with a revoked license.

In another accident, a Chicago man was injured Monday when his car ran off I-94 near the Boyer road overpass, Columbia township, about 3:45 p.m., state police of the Benton Harbor post said.

Released after treatment at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, for apparently minor injuries was Belarmino Najar, 22, Chicago. Troopers said his car went out of control when it hit the shoulder and went into a ditch. No tickets were issued.

Hartford Man Faces 2 Hearings

PAWPAW — A Hartford man was granted a hearing yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for failing to appear at his preliminary examination last Friday on three counts of issuing no account checks.

Judge William C. Bull ordered that Rick Dale Rice, 23, 122 Paras Hill, Hartford, be held on $2,000 bond pending the contempt hearing and new preliminary examination, both of which were scheduled for Thursday.

Rice is accused of writing three no account checks totaling $75 that were cashed in Hartford on April 19, 20, and 22.

Tests In 400 Schools

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Nearly 400 elementary and high schools have said they will participate in a state program to test the reading and mathematics skills of kindergarten and 10th grade students this fall. The pilot program was originally set for 100 grade schools and 100 high schools, but 185 grade schools agreed to test their kindergartners and 175 high schools agreed to test 10th graders. The voluntary program will be given in September and October by local school districts to see if students are learning the skills they should.

DEMOCRAT PLATFORM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic platform committee has approved a proposed campaign plank calling for partial federal financing of congressional elections.

Bathtub Habits Gets New Twist

BRIGHTON, Mich. (AP) — A lot of people read in the bathtub, but Brighton Public Schools have given the habit a new twist by allowing students to read in waterless classroom bathtubs.

"It's a matter of using surplus objects in a creative fashion," said Mrs. Nancy Bloomquist, media specialist at one Brighton school.

The idea began when a school official came across some surplus tubs, and offered them to the district's teachers. Several installed them in school media centers or classrooms, where students are encouraged to sit in the tub while they read.

There are rules: no shoes in the tub, and no more than two occupants at a time. And of course students never take off more than their shoes, and no soap or water comes in these tubs.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Continue To Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved ahead again today, but had to struggle against profit-taking forces after the sharp gains of the past three sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up a fraction in the early going, and gainers took a 5-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Trading was brisk.

Analysts said the rally that began toward the end of last week had prompted some new enthusiasm among investors. But they also noted an inclination among short-term traders to nail down some profits.

Today's early prices included Singer, up 1/4 at 21 1/2; Gillette, ahead 1/4 at 29 1/2; Fluor, unchanged at 39 1/2; and Standard Oil of California, up 1/4 at 37 1/2.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average picked up 12.44 points to 801.24, stretching its gain for the past three sessions to 33.15.

Advances outnumbered declines by about a 7-2 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index rose .54 to 54.27.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .54 at 103.31.

Kellogg, Tropicana Merger Off

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Kellogg Co. said Monday that it and Tropicana Products Inc. have mutually agreed to terminate plans to merge. The two companies announced on May 19 that an agreement in principle had been reached for Kellogg to purchase Tropicana's 8.4 million shares for $1.1 billion Kellogg shares.

The Kellogg shares would be worth $325 million at current market price.

John Ogilby, Tropicana treasurer, said "I don't think I could put my finger on one specific thing" that led to the cancellation of the agreement.

A Kellogg spokesman said he did not have any information on why the negotiations broke down.

It was the second time that the Battle Creek-based cereal company tried to buy the big orange juice maker.

In April 1974, Kellogg announced a plan to buy Tropicana for $1.4 billion Kellogg shares, then worth $100 million.

Tropicana pulled off the deal a week later.

Ogilby said he doesn't think a third deal would be attempted.

"I don't think my nervous system could stand it," he said.

Strawberry Demand Is Slower

Demand was "slow" and strawberry prices were lower Monday on the Benton Harbor Fruit Market. USDA Market News Reporter Mike Pfeiffer said. Prices paid to growers were: 16-qt. crate — Medium to large $7 to $8, mostly $7 to $7.50; best, including some early sales, $8.25 to $8.50; few small to medium $5.50. Receipts: 11,219.

8-qt. flat — Medium to large $3.75 to $4, mostly $4, few best $4.50, occasionally higher. Receipts: 2,227.

South Haven Hospital

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Covered Options Won't Bring Chaos

BY SAM SHULSKY

Q. I am in my late 50s, have been in the stock market 30 years; now am almost exclusively in AAs and Treasuries. For some "luster" income I have gone into the options market, buying a stock and then selling an option against it. No credit, no margin. Made about 5 per cent net on a Brunswick option and now have options out on W. R. Grace, UAL, G.D. Searle, Polaroid. If a stock drops below my net cost (original cost minus premium received on option) I buy back the option and dump the stock. I'm not going to sit around and see some stock drop 50 per cent. But I am worried about an article which warns of great losses which will follow the "explosive growth" in the options market.

Q. I'm disturbed by an article in a news magazine which seems to equate the burgeoning play in stock options with the sensational rise in speculation and margining of stocks in the 1920s — which led to the Crash. Is there a parallel?

A. Just about every device may be used conservatively or with reckless abandon. Automobiles are used to ride to church. They are also used in "reckless derbies." A match may be struck to light a cigarette or a conflagration.

An option represents a claim on a stock at a certain price during a certain period of time.

If you sell an option on 100 shares of General Motors at $7 — and do not own the 100 GM (in other words, sell a "naked" option) you have, in effect, gone short 100 GM. If the stock takes off like a rocket, you are in deep trouble. You may have to pay $1,000 or more to get back the option you sold for $700. Or, if you turn stubborn about it and let the option run its course, you will find yourself called upon to supply 100 shares of the stock for which you may then have to pay $0.90 or $1.00.

So I would translate the warning you offer to read: If too many people think going short or trying to outguess the market via options are easy roads to stock market riches we could have a serious situation in a wild market.

However, I don't see how an option sold against a stock held in one's portfolio can result in serious losses or, at least, in losses which can't be defined and limited on the very day the option is sold.

As far as I can determine, a large percentage of options are sold against stock owned; in other words — "covered options." I fail to see any resemblance in this activity to the wild bidding up of stocks in the '20s with the help of margin loans covering as much as 90 per cent (and more) of the stock's cost or with the widespread dependence in those days on the "bigger fool" theory: pay any price for any stock because a bigger fool will come along tomorrow and pay you an even higher price for it. As we all now know, there came a day in October, 1929, when we ran out of fools.

To sum up, the seller of a covered option can define his losses at the very start and can close out the deal at any time he pleases. The option buyer also knows to the penny how much he is gambling. If he puts down $400 for the option that is what he can lose — period.

I must stress again, however, that these limits on losses apply only where "covered" options are concerned and where there is no attempt to beat the market by wheeling and dealing in either the option or the underlying stock.

Q. I have several thousand dollars to invest but can't tell whether common stocks, municipal bonds, Treasury bonds or preferreds would be best for me.

A. Neither can I tell — without knowing who you are: age, earnings, responsibilities, resources, goals.

Q. I have $1,200 in one stock and $250 in another. How do I go about cashing these in?

A. That's what securities brokerage firms are in business to do.

Repair Bids Opened On Two Drains

A Berrien Springs firm is the apparent low bidder for replacement of some 700 feet of tile in a closed storm drain that serves the Village of Berrien and a portion of Berrien township.

Dräger and Fashender, Inc., entered the bid of $18,575 for replacement of tile in the Starr and Wellington drain, according to Berrien Drain Commissioner Carl F. Goodtke.

The tile for the project will be supplied by Lamar Corp. of Grand Rapids on a bid of $8.55 per foot, Goodtke said.

Damaged tile in the drain, which serves approximately 150 property owners, has caused flooding and flooded basements in several areas, especially along Lemon Creek road, Goodtke added.

The apparent low bid for another project — cleaning the Weaver and Harroff drain in Buchanan township — was entered by Lee Oldenburg of Sawyer.

Oldenburg's bid of $10,712 is for cleaning approximately 10,400 feet of open drain, which also serves a portion of Oronoko township.

Goodtke said the cost of both projects would be paid by property owners in the districts involved on an assessment basis.

Drainage Project Gets 2nd Chance

By DENNIS COGSWELL

PAW PAW — A proposed cleanup of the Gates drain, blocked once already in Van Buren circuit court, will get a second chance June 28 when a new board of determination will meet to rule on the merits of the project.

Last week, Mrs. Elmyra Hearn, Van Buren drain commissioner, received a petition signed by property owners in Paw Paw, Decatur, and Antwerp townships asking that the 5.5 mile drain, which is the west branch of the Paw Paw river, be cleaned out.

That petition followed by only about a week a ruling by visiting Judge James Hoff of Cass county in Van Buren circuit court that barred a 1973 decision by a board of determination to undertake the project. Hoff ruled at that time that Paw Paw village failed to receive notice of the board's meeting when it should have because it was within the drainage district.

The decision came during a hearing on a suit brought by the villages of Paw Paw and Lawton, Paw Paw township, the Paw Paw Conservation club, and Dr. Charles Tenfoujou of Paw Paw to stop the work because of environmental reasons.

Serving on the new board of determination, appointed by Walter Sticks, chairman of the county board of commissioners, will be Leonard Marsstrom, South Haven, Claude Unrath, Hartford, and William Colgren, Jr., Arlington township.

The board will meet at 9 a.m. where the drain crosses Burgess road in Decatur township to discuss the project, according to Mrs. Hearn.

Murder Suspect Testifies and looked back to see the brake lights of a "four-wheel drive pickup truck" come on at the spot where he had left the girl.

He said he remembers driving the girl's car back to South Haven and into the Black river. The car was the same one driven by Miss Knapp that night, according to earlier testimony.

Under cross-examination by Hunter, Sparks denied ever stabbing or striking the girl with the knife.

Sparks said he didn't remember having any bruises from the alleged girl's attack on him.

Hunter during his cross-examination repeatedly held various prosecution exhibits in front of Sparks, such as his blood stained jacket, pants, knife, plus the girl's panties. Sparks remained calm and seemingly kept his composure through the cross-examination.

Dr. Kison, the defense expert witness, testified he examined Sparks on two different occasions, the last within the past week to 10 days at the Forensic center.

Dr. Kison testified in his opinion he did not find Sparks to be in a state of mental illness during the incident or at present.

Dr. Kison testified he felt at the time of the incident Sparks "had a complete loss of control." He described it as an "explosive rage" which had been building within him. Dr. Kison said of Sparks at that time "that nothing short of physical strength (someone else) could have stopped him."

Dr. Kison said in his opinion Sparks had conscious control of what he was doing after the act, but no memory of it.

He said in his opinion, Sparks at the time he was enraged was not conscious of what he was doing, however.
